TAFT QUITS SUPREME BENCH

Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone Is Reported in Line for Successor as Chief

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 3 (AP)—Former President Taft is a "pretty sick man," Dr. Francis Hogner of Washington, his personal physician, said here today.

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—William Howard Taft, broken in health by years of labor for the nation, has resigned the exalted post of chief justice of the United States.

Through his son, Robert A. Taft, he submitted his resignation to President Hoover and prepared to return to Washington from Asheville, N. C., where he went several weeks ago to recuperate from a near-breakdown.

Although the resignation came suddenly, as far as the public at large was concerned, those in the inner circle of the Supreme Court had been expecting for several days that the former President would be compelled to give up his exacting duties on the bench.

He had seemed worn and wearied for weeks and it appeared to be only a matter of time when a successor would be named.

The resignation of the chief justice unquestionably will be accepted by the President and it will become effective immediately upon such acceptance.

Mr. Taft then would automatically be placed on the judicial retired list, since he has served the requisite number of years, first as a circuit judge and then as chief justice of the United States.

Immediately after the White House announcement there was speculation as to whom President Hoover would select as the next chief justice.

Besides those already on the highest tribunal, including Justice Stone, there came into the picture Calvin Coolidge, another former President, and Charles Evans Hughes, who once served on the Supreme Bench.

The name most prominently mentioned was that of Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone of New York city, who was elevated to the bench by President Coolidge March 2, 1925, after he had served a short term as attorney general.

Justice Stone and President Hoover are close personal friends and have been for a number of years. It is known that the associate justice was high among those in the councils of Mr. Hoover before his inauguration. He is a member of the "medicine ball cabinet" and almost daily engages in the medicine ball games held at the White House each morning except Sunday.

With the announcement today that President Hoover was contemplating a fishing trip to Florida soon came word that Justice

RUTH IN THREAT TO YANKEES HE'LL QUIT

Home Run King Says He Has $25,000 a Year in Dividends Alone

New York, Feb. 3 (INS)—In a formal statement made public today, "Babe" Ruth announced that, unless the New York Yankees meet his demand for an $85,000 contract, he would retire from organized baseball.

"If the Yankees reject my request for an increase, I will remain idle, which at my age means retirement from baseball," the statement read in part. "I mean organized baseball.

"A few years ago I could not take this attitude. I would be obliged to sign at any terms for the same reasons 95 per cent of all ball players have to sign—bread and butter.

"Well, there's enough bread and butter in our home, even if I never touch another baseball in my life. Without receiving five cents from the Yankees in 1930, I am assured an income of $25,000 from established dividends and royalties."

Ruth added that his income would be supplemented by "whatever I can pick up on the side." He said he had returned unsigned his contract, which is believed to have called for $75,000 over a two-year period, and darkly hinted that, if the worst came to the worst, he would engage in exhibition games

Hub Stock Brokers Fail

Jackson & Harris, Boston stock brokerage firm, was suspended by the Boston Stock Exchange today after announcement by officials of the company that they were unable to meet their obligations.

The members of the firm are Malcolm N. Jackson and Howard S. Harris. Jackson has held a seat in the exchange since February 6, 1923, and maintains a suite of offices in a Devonshire st. build-ing.

A sudden collapse in the market value o. Venezuelan Mexican Oil common stock, which fell off 54 points two weeks ago, is believed to have caused the suspension of business.

According to officials of the firm, they were unable to get in touch with one of their customers holding a sizeable block of the stock when the break came.

'RED' AGITATOR SEIZED HERE

Benjamin Gold, Communistic agitator, was arrested today at a meeting of the Trade Union Unity League in Harrison ave., when attacks were made on President Hoover, Mayor Curley and the city government.

Gold was taken into custody on a charge of using profanity, the arrest being made by Sergt. Thomas McMurray, detailed in plain clothes to the meeting.

The meeting, composed largely of unemployed, was attended by about 200. It was opened by Mark Whittier, chairman, who immediately launched into a denunciation of the President. He said President Hoover and the police were in alliance against the Communist party and were out to ruin it.

"The police carry out the commands of President Hoover," he said, "but if we make a request of them they ignore us."

He introduced Gold, who is alleged to have made an attack on Mayor Curley and the city government. Gold was arrested as he left the building.

MANY CHICAGO SUBURBS ARE ALSO 'BROKE'

City Plans to Borrow Six Millions at Once to Pay the Police and Fire Forces

Chicago, Feb. 3 (AP)—Chicago and Cook county had bits of company on the financial rocks today.

Several suburban governments had joined them, all in the quandry of payrolls to meet and without monies with which to do it.

The South Park Board, controlling the system of South Side parks, announced a 15 per cent reduction of wages. Its 3300 employes, including 320 policemen, agreed to the temporary" cut rather than to accept the alternative of a reduction in the number of employes. This is the first time the South Park Board, which is State controlled, has indicated that the financial shoe was pinching.

City employes, payless for a month, may have some important news tomorrow when the council is to decide whether to ask the citizens' relief committee for $6,000,000 to meet police, fire and health department payrolls.

Alderman John S. Clark, chairman of the city council's finance committee, will ask aldermanic sanction for a meeting between representatives of the city and of the relief committee, relative to completion of the loan.

The relief committee has insisted that before it will get money for the city, the administration must give assurance that the money will go only for the payment of pressing bills, and that right economy henceforth will be exercised. Mayor William Hale Thompson and his supporters have shown no enthusiasm toward the relief committee offer.

The $6,000,000, Clark pointed out, would meet payrolls until February 15. For the remainder of this month, an additional $2,000,000 is required, from then on, until

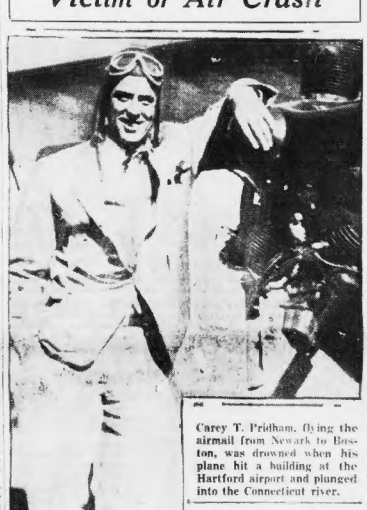
Victim of Air Crash



Carey T. Pridham, flying the airmail from Newark to Boston, was drowned when his plane hit a building at the Hartford airport and plunged into the Connecticut river.

LOSES LIFE AS HIS PLANE CRASHES IN FOG

Hits Building at Hartford Airport and Plunges Into Connecticut

Carey T. Pridham, flying the airmail from Newark to Boston, was killed today when his ship struck an observation platform at Brainard Field, Hartford, and plunged into the Connecticut river.

The pilot, strapped into the cockpit of the Pitcairn Mailwing, apparently was killed by the impact, receiving a fractured skull.

The plane, which turned over on striking the water, was pulled ashore and Pridham's body recovered.

He leaves a wife and three children, with whom he made his home in Lexington.

Pridham's death was the fourth fatality on the Boston-New York airmail route, the other victims having been Daniel Cline, killed in September of 1926; Edward C. Carrington, January, 1929 and Henry Tallman, September, 1929.

According to officials of Brainard Field, Pridham, coming into the field from Newark with mail, apparently overshot his mark in attempting to make a landing and struck a small building near the river.

DOVE INTO RIVER

According to Arthur Chlounard, a postal clerk and the only witness of the crash, Pridham apparently failed to see the observation platform on top of the building because of fog.

The left wing struck the platform and crumpled, and the ship flipped over in the air and then dove into the nearby river. Part of the wooden platform was swept 200 feet from the scene of the crash by the force of the impact.

Airport attaches dragged ashore the wrecked plane, a twisted mass of metal with the throttle still wide open. Pridham's body was examined by Medical Examiner Dr. William Lisby, who gave the cause of death as a fractured skull.

Postal officials began an examination of the mail to determine whether any could be salvaged. The announced that any letters lost destroyed would be sent to Boston by train.

WRECK INSPECTED

The Connecticut aviation department, headed by Commissioner Clarence M. Knox and Inspector George Prannitis, made an inspection of the wrecked plane. It was not decided whether or not Pridham had come into the field with full throttle or if the force of the crash had opened it.

Pridham succeeded Tallman as air mail pilot for the Colonial Air Transport, Inc., having flown the trip-motor between Boston and New York since last May.

Taking over the mail run, he was teamed with Lieut. Frank C. Crowley, under whose instructions Pridham learned the route and familiarized himself with weather conditions.

After Crowley left the employ of the company, Sebastian Fond became Pridham's teammate, the former having been promoted to chief mail pilot.

Pridham, who was married in 1921 to Miss Anna E. Fellows of Arlington, was the son of Robert M. Pridham of Whitestone, Va.

CARUSO'S GIRL LOSES SUIT

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 3 (INS)—Chancellor Edwin R. Walker's decision that Gloria Caruso, young daughter of Enrico Caruso, was entitled to two-thirds of the Caruso property in this state was reversed here today by the Court of Error and Appeals.

The property, amounting to nearly $1,000,000, is made up of royalties from the Victor Talking Machine Company. Under a decree of the Italian courts the noted tenor's estate was divided into eight parts, one-half going to his daughter.

The chancellor did not pass upon Mrs. Caruso's share of the royalties, which under the Italian decree would be only one-eighth of her legal one-third interest which she would have received had there been no Italian decree.

$100,000 BLAST IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Feb. 3 (AP)—Another $100,000 bomb explosion occurred today, shaking a considerable section of the West side.

The explosion was in the fruit store of Sam Madonia. Two adjoining stores were badly damaged, and buildings in the neighborhood were shaken. No one was injured.

Less than a week ago a bomb did similar extensive damage to a North side building housing a wholesale grocery business.

Today's explosion was in the building at 522 South Kildare. Debris was hurled 125 feet in the air, witnesses said. George Gallagher, stage manager of the Harris theater, who was driving two blocks away when he heard the blast and felt the ground shake under his car, said debris still was falling when he reached the scene.

Many persons in nearby buildings were shaken from bed. Among the number was F. J. Sherman, owner of the building, and it was he who estimated the damage at $100,000. Firemen at first believed a gas explosion was responsible, but Sherman said there was no gas in the building.

Sam Madonia, owner of the fruit store, could not be found by police early today. They sought to question him as to a possible motive for the bombing.

Liggett's counsel was doing much, he said, to disrupt the Republican party and he should be replaced by some one who could command the support of dry Republicans.

Britain Offers 'Big 5' a Naval Compromise

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—The British delegation today formulated and presented to the other five-power delegates a counter-proposal to the French tonnage plan, and will submit it to the full naval conference tomorrow morning. The counter-proposal was described as another move toward an agreement on the limitation of navies.

The British plan recognizes the ultimate necessity of the five great sea powers fixing a total tonnage for each navy. This is in complete agreement with the French plan.

The feature of the British plan is that it divides seacraft into five categories instead of six as in the French plan.

There was much gossip in conference circles today over the efforts of a large London daily to make a French victory out of the presence of a League of Nations observer at the conference sessions.

The French have been insistent that all limitation negotiations be subservient to the League of Nations disarmament efforts.

The United States is the only non-member of the League present at the conference. The Americans never have objected to the league observing and discussing any agreement made here although they have been insistent that no league action would affect the American part in any such agreement.

Indications that the American

Arriving this morning, the prince, garbed in a sport shirt and white trousers, received a number of prominent residents and later motored to the golf course, where he played a round. By midday he had resumed his train journey to the cheers of crowds.

Seize $25,000 Liquor, Arrest Nine, in R. I.

Providence, Feb. 3—A farm gate left ajar led to the seizure of newly-landed liquor valued at $25,000 and the arrest of nine men at Bonnet Point, near Narragansett Pier, today.

Deputy Prohibition Administrator John W. Morrill, who with three other federal agents made the seizure and arrests, said he believed Anawan farm, where the liquor was found, to have been a landing place for cargoes of the notorious Black Duck.

The federal agents were cruising the West Shore rd. in an automobile at 2 o'clock this morning when they noticed the farm gate, usually locked, left partially open. They parked their car and extinguished the lights.

In a few minutes a truck and a touring car, both without lights and both with three occupants, approached the farm. As the agents stepped out and stopped the trucks

PETER LARKIN, 'TEA KING' DIES

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—Peter Larkin, Canadian high commissioner, in London, died today. He had been ill since he returned here from The Hague reparations conference.

Death came at 1 o'clock this morning after a sudden heart attack. Mr. Larkin had been confined to his bed for a fortnight because of faulty heart action.

Mr. Larkin was widely known all over the western hemisphere because of his extensive business activities.

Mr. Larkin was 73 years old. He had been high commissioner of Canada to the United Kingdom since 1922. He was born in Montreal and before he was very well acquainted the idea of delivering tea to the public in sealed lead packets. He became known as the "Tea King of America."

He was a Liberal in political leaning.

In addition to being high commissioner for Canada in London, Mr. Larkin was a member of the privy council of Canada and president of Salada Tea Co. of Canada.

Dyer to Quiz Hoover Board on 2.75 Beer

Washington, Feb. 3 (INS)—The entire presidential law enforcement commission, headed by George W. Wickersham, will be called before the House judiciary committee to say whether legalizing of 2.75 per cent beer would bring better enforcement, Representative Dyer (R.) of Missouri, announced today.

The committee will open hearing upon modification bills February 12.

"I expect to ask members of the commission as well as district attorneys and others charged with enforcement to give their opinion as to whether legalizing of beer and light wines would not make enforcement of the 18th amendment more effective," explained Dyer.

He has already made one effort to get a definite statement from the commission, having appealed both to President Hoover and Chairman Wickersham for endorsement of his 2.75 beer bill.

He is chairman of the sub com-

Congressman Hit for Seeing "Red"

Detroit, Feb. 3 (INS)—Charging Congressman Robert A. Clancy of Michigan with "hysteria" in deploring the killing of rum runners and not demanding investigations of slayings of rum agents, Dr. C. Hedwig, president of the Detroit Michigan Anti-Saloon League made public today a letter he sent to Mr. Clancy in which he said:

In all the deplorable cases that the killing of three dry agents near Detroit and Toledo, and Congressman Clancy's charge of "fanaticism" back of the Congressman who accuses the dry agents of being law-breaking wet is injured, but who can with utter complacency hear of the murder of faithful government officials."

Congress Antis Plan Air-Tight Organization

Washington, Feb. 3 (INS)—Confident that the prohibition question will be dominant issue in the next presidential campaign, prominent antis today instituted a movement to bring about a thorough clean-up drive on their scattered forces.

Having found because the wet forces have been an army with more generals than privates, the wets, during the past two years to muss things on the dry, are insistent upon an air-tight organization.

31 Arrested in Big Idaho Liquor Drive

Orofino, Idaho, Feb. 3 (AP)—Thirty-one persons were under arrest and 11 others were being hunted in this vicinity today as the result of the government's latest effort to dry up the wet area of Northern Idaho by wholesale operations against prohibition policy.

A platoon of federal prohibition agents, operating with armored cars, sawed-off shotguns and machine guns, broke upon Orofino Saturday night, arrested with a sheaf of warrants, and before dawn had arrested a score charged with conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition act.

Would Permit Doctors to Decide Prescription Amounts

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Amendment of the prohibition law to permit physicians to prescribe wines and liquors in such quantities as they, not dentists, may deem proper, was proposed in a bill today by Representative Celler, Democrat, New York.

"Doctors, being of an honored profession should be trusted not to abuse their privileges," the New Yorker said in a statement. "They may prescribe bread and not opiates; they have power, with the knife and scalpel, to cut into the human anatomy. Yet prohibition makes a mockery of this honored profession. Doctors may not prescribe more than a pint of medicinal whiskey, nor more than one quart of wine within any period of ten days."

Would Abolish Limit on Medicinal Liquor

Washington, Feb. 3 (INS)—Removal of all restrictions upon physician in prescribing wines and liquors for medicinal purposes is proposed in a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Celler (D.) of New York.

Many doctors, Celler said, resent the limit of half a pint of whisky or one quart of wine for any one patient in a 10-day period.

As an argument Celler pointed out that doctors may legally prescribe strichnine or other drug without restriction.

La Guardia's Home Brew All Right for Home Use

Washington, Feb. 3 (INS)—Federal prohibition authorities would not interfere with plans of Representative LaGuardia (R.), New York, a wet, to manufacture home brew in his New York home unless he "tried to bootleg."

Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, announced today the prohibition bureau can not enter LaGuardia's home and make a test case of him, as the Congressman planned, unless there is a commercial violation of the prohibition laws.

This means La Guardia will not set up his home brew equipment. He announced Saturday he would submit himself for a test case if Doran would promise to arrest him.

Such a violation means the manufacture and sale of home brew, Doran explained. If such violations were reported a warrant for a search of La Guardia's house could be issued and arrests made. Without evidence of commercial violations, La Guardia would be unmolested by the government's dry agents, Doran said.

Hoover Prohibition Bureau Transfer Vote Due Saturday

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Hoover's first recommendation to Congress to strengthen prohibition enforcement by placing the responsibility on the Attorney-General will be taken up by the House Thursday.

The measure to effect the transfer of the prohibition bureau from the Treasury was reported to the House today.

The committee report, which urged early passage, was accompanied by a minority report opposing a provision that would hold the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney-General jointly responsible for enforcement.

STATE BOARD IS SCORED ON SMOKE EVIL

Special Commissioner Urged to Investigate Conditions in Boston

The public utilities commission was today blasted for laxity in enforcing the smoke nuisance laws by speakers at a hearing before the legislative committee on public health.

It was urged that a uniform standard be established for emission of smoke and a special commissioner be appointed by the governor to investigate smoke conditions in Metropolitan Boston.

In defense of his utilities commission, Chairman Henry C. Attwill said:

"I don't want to destroy the industries of the State, neither do I think we should destroy the health of our people."

The chairman frankly stated that he would like to see the legislature take the enforcement of the smoke abatement law out of his department and give it to the state police of the board of health.

Attwill pleaded for a uniform standard and said that more inspections would accomplish something but not what the public desired. He said that as far as New York city is concerned, the situation is pretty well dealt with.

Attwill observed that the business men who run power plants and heating plants in Massachusetts are not "as smart" as those in New York. In reply to a question as to how the New York regulations have affected industries, Attwill said:

"When I was there industry appeared to be progressing and I did not observe any grass growing in the streets."

The state police overhauled Kerwin on Diamond Hill road a short distance from the Massachusetts line, brought him to Central Falls district court where he was fined $50 on a charge of operating an automobile to endanger the lives of the public and then turned him over to prohibition authorities at Providence. The girl was not held.

TAFT RESIGNS FROM BENCH

Stone would probably accompany him.

It was understood that Chief Justice Taft's resignation was tendered because of a serious development in his illness. He has been in Asheville, N. C., for three weeks after being in a hospital here for 10 days because of a recurrence of bladder trouble.

OVERTAXED BY JOURNEY

Just before this he had returned from Cincinnati, where he had attended the funeral of his half-brother, Charles P. Taft. This trip was said by friends to have overtaxed his strength.

The chief justice will return tomorrow to Washington from Asheville, Robert A. Taft said there was no significance to this change and that his father could be as comfortable here as he could be in Asheville and desired to return home.

The resignation removes from official life one of the outstanding figures of the present time.

As President of the United States, Secretary of War, Governor-General of the Philippines and later as chief justice of the United States, he, more than any other man, has been a part of the American government for a quarter of a century.

He was born in Ohio and is now, therefore, in his 73d year.

STONE "PROGRESSIVE"

"The importance of today's resignation lies in its probable reorganization of the Supreme Court. At present always five and often six of its nine members are called conservative. Justice Stone has been aligned with Justice Holmes and Brandeis in many dissenting opinions and would be expected by those familiar with his trend of mind and views to be what is known in court circles as progressive.

There is a possibility that during the administration of President Hoover the court may be completely changed, Justices Holmes and Brandeis are both eligible for retirement but both intend to remain on the bench indefinitely. Justice Vandevanter, also eligible for retirement, has been remaining on the bench at the earnest solicitation of his colleagues.

Should President Hoover be reelected he would have the appointment of more than a majority of the court. Justice Sutherland has long been in ill health and unless his condition materially improves he will be forced to retire in the near future.

When President Hoover was making up his cabinet he wanted Justice Stone again to become attorney-general, but the justice declined.

Subsequently, when the President was selecting his national commission on law enforcement he asked Justice Stone to become chairman. The justice declined again to leave the bench so the President had to look elsewhere for a chairman and chose George W. Wickersham.

Boston Mail Flier Is Killed in Crash insurance business locally for a time, but entered commercial aviation in 1928 when he became associated with the Wolfmore-Savage Aircraft Corporation of Boston as chief pilot and vice-president.

While with this company he established an altitude record for light planes in New England, taking a Bird Air Sedan up to more than 17,000 feet.

Last Wednesday Pridham tested out the new radio beam over the airmail route flying in the clouds and viewing the earth only twice during the trip.

He stated at the conclusion of the trip the only remaining menace which he feared was ice.

"I knew that," said Pridham, "that if it gets real tough I can climb on the beacon and get through to either end of the line without difficulty."

According to Commissioner of Aviation Knox, over-confidence and carelessness on the part of Pridham was responsible for the accident. The pilot, he said, apparently was about to climb sharply to the left to do a wing-over and glide into the field for a landing.

WING DRAGGED ON ROOF

The commissioner said his investigation showed that the left wing of the mail plane dragged along the roof of the field house before striking the observation platform, indicating that Pridham had misjudged his clearance over the building.

In contrast to the statement of the eye witness, visibility at the field was good, Commissioner Knox stated.

Department of Commerce inspectors and Earl Ward, division superintendent of the Colonial Air Transport, were expected to start an investigation of the crash-up.

At the Boston headquarters of the Colonial it was announced that Pridham's body would be shipped to this city, arriving tonight. Burial will take place in Lexington, probably Wednesday, at which time a dozen planes are expected to fly overhead.

It was also stated that the airmail salvaged from the wrecked plane would be flown in Boston in another ship.

Tax officials have pledged their utmost efforts to complete the reassessment, extend the taxes, and have the bills in the mails by May 1.

The suburb of Mt. Prospect parents have contributed cash to keep schools in session, with the aid of Arlington Heights are considering similar action; in Blue Island and the night schools have been closed to keep the day schools going.

Flossmoor is borrowing from its water and sewer funds to meet other expenses; in Homewood the teachers are paid up to next Wednesday, but after that the school board knows not where money for the payroll is coming from.

In other suburbs it was the same story. Evanston is carrying a borrow $600,000 from New York bankers; affairs in Cicero are admittedly "as critical as in Chicago"; in Berwin credit is exhausted and the village trustees admit they are "hard pressed," while Maywood is having "a hard time of it."

those "ride" affairs. Cada was his own chauffeur and his own machine his death car. The busy uptown section, with its night clubs still ablaze though the hour was the dawn of a Sabbath day, was the murder scene.

The roar of an Elevated train, rumbling over the trestle across Broadway, served to drown the staccato of the assassin's shots.

A milkman saw the Cada car slide to a halt near an "L" support and two men get out. He heard no shots. Cada was found dead in the car.

The slayers must have been friends of the man they killed, which is the only way police can explain their presence in the car. One sat in back, the other beside Cada in front. The position of the body and the appearance of the bullet wounds indicated that the man at Cada's side pressed a gun against "The Dude's" head and fired and that the man behind leaned forward and fired.

DEATH TAKES PETER LARKIN

Ltd., and Salada Tea Co. of Boston.

He was an international figure in the business world. Thirty-seven years ago he worked 28 hours a day selling tea. From a lowly beginning as a salesman he rose rapidly through sheer industry and intelligence to the high place he occupied in the business world. At the time of his death he was not only recognized as a world figure in the business world but also in international politics as well.

Mr. Larkin had three hobbies, the Liberal party of Canada, the General Hospital of Canada and the Salada Tea Company. He made the General Hospital at Toronto, Canada, one of the finest in the country, serving as vice-chairman and chairman for 18 years.

During a recent visit to Boston, Mr. Larkin, who was a tall, stalwart man, was asked why he furnished his offices here and elsewhere in such luxurious fashion. He replied, "Because I don't like dull, drab, jail-like things myself. It isn't extravagance to fit offices in this manner. Forbidding surroundings hinder production in any line of business."

He then explained that the company gives $100 to an employe when he marries and $100 every time a child is born.

The Salada Tea Company was established in 1892 by Mr. Larkin.

the touring car turned around and sped away.

Although the truck was found to be empty, its passengers, Nathan Schwarz of Otisfield st., Roxbury; Benjamin Bernstein and William Goldberg, both of Providence, were taken into custody.

With their prisoners, the agents then went down the farm road to the beach, surprising six men grouped about 23 kegs of Scotch whisky and some 300 cases of assorted liquor. They did not try to escape.

The others arrested were Frank Gray, New Bedford; Harry Jacobs and Jacob Berman of Providence, and Oscar Bennoyer, William Fall and Philip Berman of Tiverton.

Two other empty trucks, one bearing a Massachusetts registration, were parked beside the contraband on the beach.

PRINCESS' SADNESS, LEEDS' GAIETY CAUSED THEM TO PART

DIVORCE LONG EXPECTED BY FRIENDS

Although New York Recognizes but One Reason for the Decree, Society's Wondering

New York, Feb. 3—The New York American says today that although the announcement of the divorce of the former Princess Xenia of Russia from W. B. Leeds, Jr., came to the public as a surprise, in social circles it had been known that the couple separated nearly a year ago.

The American says a "disparity in temperaments" was declared by friends in society to have been responsible. Although of the royal blood of gay, exotic pre-war Russia, the former princess was by nature and by her rearing and cloistered youth inclined to the dignified, the austere and the orthodox.

In contrast, Leeds has a penchant for the colorful, the gay and the dashing. Speed had become virtually an obsession with him. He delighted to entertain his guests in breath-taking rides in his fast boats. Mere dignity, cold formality, correctness had no appeal for him.

Society liked both of them, and both were exceedingly popular in the sets in which they moved. But society could not help but notice the divergence of natural desires that kept them at odds and finally a year ago determined them to separate. Advices to the American from Paris quoted Prince Christopher of Greece, widow of Leed's mother, as saying, "We are terribly upset. We cannot imagine the reason."

Leeds and Princess Xenia were married in Paris Oct. 8, 1921. Each was 19 years old at the time. They have a small daughter.

Details of the grounds upon which she was granted the interlocutory decree remained a formal secret, however.

Percy Stoddart, referee in the cause, said he did not remember the grounds upon which the divorce was sought, in signing the decree at Huntington, Long Island. Strong said it was based on the findings of Stoddart and he did not know what the grounds were. There is only one cause for divorce in New York State.

Claims U. S. Dye Men Combine to Fix Prices

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Asserting that American dye corporations were engaged in "combinations to fix prices and to control the American market," Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, urged the Senate today to abolish the power of basing the tariff on American valuation.

He said the American producers enjoyed a monopoly of the domestic market under present tariffs based on American valuation and in addition exported surplus dyes at prices "in some instances a third to half the prices they charged domestic consumers."

Silent U. S. Navy Officer Dismissed

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Hoover has confirmed a sentence of dismissal from the navy for Lieut. Harold W. Bright, who was charged with desertion and other offenses.

Northcutt was discovered in Vancouver, B. C., in company with a woman, who was said to be a trained nurse. He surrendered at the Puget Sound navy yard.

He refused to make any statement, or to explain in any way his actions.

Lynn Man Held for Portland Drug Theft

Portland, Me., Feb. 3 (AP)—Charles P. Donovan, alias Murphy, 57, of Lynn, Mass., charged with stealing 1000 narcotic tablets from the office of Dr. Luther A. Brown, was held in $2000 bail today.

Charges of attempting to steal narcotics from the offices of two of the physicians were also preferred against him. Police testified they found a hypodermic needle and syringe in his possession when they arrested him at a rooming house Sunday morning.

Woman, 61, Going to Work, Killed by Auto

LINK DOT KING CASE IN PROBE

Washington, Feb. 3 (INS)—Thirty-one witnesses go before a grand jury at the reopening of the investigation into the death here of Mrs. Amelia Fischer Dreyfus, attractive divorcee.

She was a witness in the Dot King murder mystery in New York seven years ago and helped to establish an alibi for Albert E. Gutmares, Porto Rican giglo, when he was held in connection with the Broadway butterfly's death.

Mrs. Dreyfus fell to her death last October from the balcony of the Potomac Boat Club. A moment before she had been talking with Edmund J. McBrian, New York broker. McBrian was said to have been an alibi witness for Gutmares also, and was known as Mrs. Drey fus' admirer.

A coroner's jury declared death was accidental. The new inquiry was started because of statements of the family to the effect Mrs. Dreyfus might have been pushed to her death.

Miss Freda Fischer, sister of Mrs. Dreyfus, was expected to tell of occasions when McBrian is alleged to have quarreled with her sister.

Man Held in Attempt to Kill Wife, 2 Others

Leominster, Feb. 3 (AP)—Anthony Defuseo was held for the grand jury today in $20,000 bail on charges of assault with intent to kill his wife, Anna, and two members of her family, and carrying a revolver without authorization.

Defuseo is alleged to have called on his wife, who was living apart, and menaced her, her mother and the latter's son, Stephen. He was lodged in the county jail in default of bail.

DeRivera, Challenged to Duel, Apologizes

Madrid, Feb. 3 (AP)—Challenged to a duel, Gen. Primo De Riveria, Spain's ousted dictator, has offered an explanation to the Duke of Almodovar for certain utterances against the Duke and thus evaded necessity of settling an affair of honor with pistols.

Five years ago in the first days of his dictatorship, Gen. Primo De Rivera made particularly violent statements in criticism of ministers of the cabinet preceding his. One of those assailed was the Duke, former minister of interior, who was termed a "weak and inept man."

The Duke sent Primo a letter, demanding explanations or a meeting on the field of honor. Primo De Rivera replied that while he was in power he would not undertake anything of this sort, but would leave the solution until such a time as he had abandoned his post.

Twenty-four hours had not elapsed after the dictator's fall before the Duke sent his seconds to demand satisfaction.

Primo De Rivera told the seconds that he was sending a letter to the Duke recalling his gallantry and making explanations.

SAYS HE PAID A RUM BRIBE

Oklahoma City, Feb. 3 (AP)—Homer Knappenberger, former mayor of Earlsboro, testified today in federal district court in the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy trial that he paid Oscar Gordon, investigator of the Oklahoma attorney-generals' office, $2500 in 1927 and 1928 to forestall presentation before a state grand jury of evidence concerning protection of bootleggers.

The last payment, Knappenberger declared, was made in the Oklahoma Capitol here.

Bill Rigney, former chief of police at Earlsboro, and Ralph Adams, bootlegger, two of 32 defendants on trial for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, pleaded guilty when court convened.

Largest U. S. Fleet Assembles Off Cuba

Santiago, Cuba, Feb. 3 (AP)—The largest number of American battleships and seaplanes ever to assemble in Cuban waters is now concentrating in Guantanamo bay for the annual manuevers.

Vessels continue to arrive and more than 20,000 officers and sailors already have taken shore leave in Guantanamo and Caimanera. The dirigible Los Angeles is expected here the latter part of the month.

15 DOCTORS TRY TO SAVE LIFE OF MAJ. MURPHY

Girl in Lowell Auto Wreck Is Also in a Grave Condition in Hospital

Lowell, Feb. 3 (AP)—The condition of Maj. Francis P. Murphy, prominent Nashua, N. H. manufacturer and Republican, and Miss Joyce Husband, 15, of Amesbury, N. Y., who were injured in an automobile accident here Saturday, was regarded as extremely grave today.

Fifteen physicians and surgeons, several of them noted specialists, were in consultation over the case until late yesterday at St. John's hospital.

Miss Husband, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Husband, wealthy residents of Amesbury, N. Y., has a fractured spine while Maj. Murphy is suffering a concussion of the brain and internal injuries.

Mrs. Murphy and her daughter, Eleanor, a classmate of Miss Husband at a fashionable girls' school here, are still in a serious condition but are expected to recover. Francis P. Murphy, Jr., who also was in the Murphy car when it skidded down an embankment escaped injury, but Joseph Dignon of Concord, N. H., the chauffeur, received a fractured jaw.

Miss Husband's parents are at their daughter's bedside.

FRANCES WHITE SUES HER MATE

Chicago, Feb. 3 (AP)—Frances White of musical comedy and the varieties sought again today in the courts of Judge Sabath to win matrimonial freedom from Clinton Donnelly, New York broker.

They were married in 1925 at Cincinnati after Donnelly was divorced from Mrs. Hazel Reba Donnelly, whose suit named Miss White.

Foil Escape Plot in New York Jail

Lockport, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—A group of prisoners in the Niagara County jail were under close guard today after discovery of sawed bars and a gun for a jail break.

Informed by trusties of the proposed attempt to escape, Sheriff Ralph A. Walsh and his deputies discovered the bars of one cell partly sawed through and found a number of saws hidden in the bottoms of mattresses. The bars on a cell occupied by Harold Palmer, 29, of Philadelphia, held in connection with a forgery charge, had been nearly cut through.

Largest Seaplane to Make Capital Trip

Philadelphia, Feb. 3—Having successfully passed a series of test flights, the largest seaplane in the United States will be flown to Washington early this week for a demonstration before officials.

Primarily, the plane is a passenger liner, with a capacity of 14 persons, baggage and mail. It is a tri-motored Ford 5AT, of metal construction. Provisions, however, have been made so that the monster craft can be converted for military use such as a bombing plane or an air ambulance.

Madrid Students' Strike Ends as De Rivera Quits

Madrid, Feb. 3 (AP)—Students of the National University on strike two weeks as an outgrowth of a controversy with the now ended dictatorship of Primo de Rivera went back to their studies today.

The students at the medical and other colleges were jubilant, but there were no disturbances. Barcelona University will resume their sessions on Tuesday and other Spanish universities today or tomorrow.

EMPTY BOTTLE INCIDENT IS CALLED PLOT

Ex-Selectman of Plymouth Calls It an Attempt to Discredit Chief

Brockton, Feb. 3—The new famous empty bottle incident at Plymouth was an obvious attempt to frame deposed Police Chief John Armstrong, it was testified in district court today by William H. Reeves, a former selectman of the town.

Reeves was the first of a quarter of a dozen witnesses for the former chief, who seeks through a writ of mandamus to force Plymouth selectmen to reinstate him.

The appearance of the "dead soldier" in a bottle shortly after it had been seen at the police station was a deliberate attempt to frame the chief, Reeves said.

TELLS OF COMPLAINTS

Reeves was a selectman in 1928 and during 1929 until August, when he resigned. He testified in support of Chief Armstrong's contention that complaints against him increased after the election of George J. Anderson as a selectman last March.

In 1928, he said, there was only one complaint against the chief, but after the election Anderson was instrumental bringing in better complaints. The words "complaints" and "petition" were stricken from the testimony upon objection of Frank L. Simpson, representing the board of selectmen.

Armstrong refused to be fired," Anderson said once according to Reeves.

HAD A CANDIDATE

"Whom would you put in his place? Reeves asked according to the testimony.

"Why, Andy here (pointing to Selectman Andrew J. Carr) would be fair," was the reply of Anderson, it is alleged to have replied.

William Armstrong, son of the deposed chief, was on the stand only hours before his father was removed. He confronted Selectman Carr, who is reported on his impending discharge and the duellen informed him no such action was contemplated.

Three days later he met the selectman again and inquiring how he was, asked him, it is told, "I didn't want to hurt your feelings."

Lawrence McCarthy and Dr. William E. Curtin were to testify for the chief before the selectmen began their defense.

Rare Manuscripts of Eugene Field Stolen

Chicago, Feb. 3 (AP)—Valuable literary and historical manuscripts that belonged to the late Eugene Field have disappeared within the last three years and the postmaster believes they have been stolen.

The lost documents include the manuscript of The Love Affairs of a Bibliomaniac. Field's last work and one of the most popular of his prose writings. Mrs. Field had refused an offer of $7500 for it.

Another missing document is the original brief in the Dred Scott case, prepared by the poet's father, Roswell M. Field, who was a leading attorney of St. Louis.

Many letters written by James Whitcomb Riley to Field also are missing. The two poets were close friends.

For many years Mrs. Field kept the documents in a safety deposit vault here. Three years ago they were shipped under bond to a Tomahawk, Wis., bank to be more readily accessible to Mrs. Field, whose home is near Radley, Wis.

Only within recent months has Mrs. Field discovered that valuable documents are missing. One manuscript believed stolen was the original of "Over the Hills and Far Away," one of Field's best known poems.

Mrs. Field revealed the loss today, believing that whoever took the papers will attempt to sell them.

U. S. Exports for '29 Largest Since '20

Washington, Feb. 3—Increase in exports from the United States to the highest peak since 1920 was shown in complete returns for 1929 issued today by the Department of Commerce.

Only in 1919 and 1920, during war and post-war conditions, have exports been higher than the $5,240,000,000 total reached last year. This was 2.3 per cent more than sales abroad during 1928 and was nearly two and one-half times larger than the average value for the period 1910-1914. It also was 15 per cent greater than exports for the period 1921-1925.

Gets Five Years in Fake Mortgage Case

Greenwich, R. I., Feb. 3—William M. Peacock was sentenced today in Superior Court to five years in state prison on one count of larceny.

Peacock, who had conducted extensive real estate and mortgage operations in Rhode Island and Massachusetts, was indicted on three counts of larceny, and is alleged to have realized more than $72,000 out of his alleged fraudulent deals. He was sentenced for theft of $6600 from Mrs. Sophie Voit of Warwick throught a fake mortgage.

CANADIAN SHOT BY U. S. PATROL

Detroit, Feb. 3 (AP)—Arthur Laframbois, a Canadian citizen, was wounded on the Detroit river today by two United States customs border patrol inspectors while he was on the Canadian side of the river.

Customs officers said they had received no reports of any shootings on the rivers although agents had been operating in the region.

Laframbois' brother-in-law said they had not been able to find that Laframbois had ever been connected with rum-running activities.

Laframbois, whose home is at Amherstburg, Ont., said he was shot while passing for home across the ice after having assisted a friend in freeing a sled load of liquor that had been caught in the ice.

The man's wounds were said to be of a minor nature. Dr. S. C. Cummings, member of Parliament from Essex West, announced he would ask the Canadian Government to make an investigation of the affair.

Here's an Autoist Who Admits She Broke the Law

Lambertville, N. J., Feb. 3 (AP)—Joan Lowell, author and actress, of New Hope, Pa., greeted Lambertville's recorder in the role of defendant when she appeared on a charge of operating an automobile with an improper license.

Miss Lowell admitted the fairness of the complaint, declaring she had neglected to procure a new license. The minimum fine of $10 and costs of $1 were imposed. The authoress promptly paid.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the "For Rent" columns.

PROMPT ACTION ON DRUG ACT PROMISED

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service

Washington, Feb. 3—Heartened by the nation-wide endorsements of his new bills striking at the dope evil, Representative Porter (R), Pennsylvania, has announced that he would press for prompt action in Congress.

Canvass of the Senate and House indicates a widespread demand for the legislation.

One measure is to create a separate narcotics bureau, and the other will require dispensers of habit-forming drugs to have a Federal license.

During the last few days Porter has received numerous communications attacking the bravery to such legislation to combat the men are reaping thousands of dollars. These anti-narcotic bureau officials, among them authorities, physicians, and state and enforcement officials.

The expressions, numbering favoring the Porter measures, are young question that the American people are determined that the evil of their traffic in habit-forming drugs must be stamped out. Many the federal government, on behalf prospects of the Porter.

As it is believed that a session of Congress will be within the Porter measures, perfect legislation.

Rep. Porter, chairman of the ways and means committee, introduced the bill to the Treasury Department today for formal approval. Treasury officials said they have no objection to it.

Hawley, leader of the anti-narcotic fight, commended the proceedings when a report is received.

The foreign affairs committee would probably act on the measure as soon as the committee is out of the way.

Tuttle Enthused Over Porter Bills

Universal Service

New York, Feb. 3—Legislation aimed at curtailing abuses in the distribution of drugs, introduced in Congress recently, by Representative Porter, has received the hearty approval of United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle.

Dist. Atty. Tuttle, who has been active in waging war on illicit narcotic traffic in New York, especially enthused over the bill providing for the license feature. He said:

"It has been my experience that a rather large number of druggists, dentists and physicians have been charged with violating the Harrison narcotic act, and that many of them they broke the regulations through ignorance of the law's provisions.

"The requirement that druggists, dispensers of narcotics will give a valuable control to the United States government over the sale of drugs and will help bring those to those no licensed the obligations they are under.

"The discussion effect of a license provision would supplement the control now existing in the Harrison act in cases where the latter is inadequate as a criminal prosecution."

Doubts Prohibition Agents Believe Law

"One of the chief causes of the failure of prohibition enforcement is due to the fact that many officers do not believe in the 18th Amendment themselves, and some of them do not even obey it," said the Rev. A. J. Cooper in his sermon preache at the Park Street Church.

MOVE TO BALK BOULDER DAM POWER GRAB

Washington, Feb. 3—Complete reversal of the ruling by Solicitor C. C. Dinsmore of the Interior Department that municipalities and states have no prior rights to buy power from the great Boulder Dam project, has been demanded of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur by Representative Phil D. Swing (R.) of California.

Counsel for the Swing-Johnson act providing for the Boulder Dam project, Swing today took up Dinsmore's ruling point by point, and showed that in each instance Dinsmore had quite evidently erred. States and municipalities in the public interest had first call on the power, he said.

Phoenix, ruling strikes at the heart of the Boulder Dam project, if permitted to stand long enough, leave the door wide open for private power companies to capture the lion's share of the power, create a heavy toll from the people in whose interest the dam is being built, Swing said.

Language of the law and state ments by members of Congress during debate on the bill were cited by Swing to show that the only question at issue was that of preference.

Fogs Sway French at Parley to "Scotch"

London, Feb. 3 (INS)—French men attached to that country's delegation to the London naval arms conference, normally wine drinkers with an inherent distaste for hard liquor, have been swayed to Scotch whiskey by the chill of London's fog. They have also discovered the heavy English meals and assorts better protection against English climate than the more delicate and substantial foods of their homeland.

A New Rug?

"Why, no indeed," smiled Joan, "That's the same old one we've had for years. We just had it cleaned by the Golden Bell method of rug shampooing. They have the most thorough method of rug shampooing that I've ever seen. They whisk the dust, grime and germs away, leaving the colors and the nap of the rug as fresh as the day it was laid. They have the most thorough method of rug shampooing that I've ever seen and 'body' of rugs may have lost in their service, is restored by this process. Stains are removed. Insects and moths are killed and gravel flushed out, and your rugs become fresh with bright colors—with years of service ahead. Their prices just now are $2.61 for 8.3x10.6 Domestics; $3.24 for 9x12 and 5 cents a square foot for Orientals. The Golden Bell Cleaners, Inc., 41 Winter St., Boston, Lib. 9260, and Eastern Ave., Malden. Tel. Malden 2000. They call and deliver in every part of Greater Boston and Providence."

"Turn on the Heat"

It smooths away the wrinkles, starts the coffee put-putting, and toasts your bread a crisp, golden brown! No, my Anne, I haven't been to the "talkies," my inspiration comes from a visit to Filene's Electrical Section in the Gift Shop department. Just opened—a marvelous array of electrical appliances that are most suitable for gifts. What little bride wouldn't love having them priced from $12.50 to $21. I was especially attracted by the four-piece sets, which include tray, coffee urn, sugar and creamer, all in the same artistic design, priced from $19 to $38.50. There are electric irons that start with the tiny "Traveler" size, priced at $3.50, to the large size one for family duty that have a little groove in one size for button protection, priced at $8.50. Waffle irons which suggest so many tempting treats at four prices from $8.75 to $18.50. And there is an electric syphon, with twelve refills, priced at $8.50. This new section of electrical appliances is in Filene's Gift Shop on Franklin St. (street floor). If you do not find what you want in stock, they will be glad to order it for you.

The "Song" for Today!

"Always" is our Scott coat song for today—because you will always be glad you attended the Fur Party at the Scott Furriers, New England's largest fur establishment, 69 Summer St., at the Sign of the Climbing Leopard. This yearly party is a huge success! Many happy women have attended fur coats at a fraction of their original cost. There are sample coats, floor models and show models, some slightly used and thoroughly renovated, ridiculously low priced. Many of these beautiful fur coats have been worn but once by noted screen stars or models at the Scott Furriers Fashion Shows in the leading theatres of New England. This popular group of coats you will find prices ranging from $25 up to $145. After selecting your coat you are privileged to choose one of the Scott liberal ways of payment. Open a charge account—join the Scott Unique Fur Club (the only one in New England, or if you prefer, you may pay cash. Should business prevent your attending the Fur Party during the day time the Scott Furriers' New England stores at 69 Summer St., Boston; 399 Westminster St., Providence, or 51 Pratt St., Hartford, will be open evenings until 9 o'clock. So come and bring your friends to the Great Scott Furriers' party, where you will be entertained by music; thrilled with the wonderful values and immensely pleased with the huge savings you will make on your fur coat. Be sure that you get the souvenir which they are holding for you.

Tell Me, Pretty Gypsy

Will my wish come true? What lies at the end of the rainbow trail? The answer is written in your tea cup, Anne, in the tea leaves, which open an open book to the Gypsy Tea Room Fortunetellers in the Gypsy Tea Shop. This bit of Romany, with its rustic settings, gayly striped caravan, black kettles singing is the most delightful place for a luncheon party, for it offers the most unusual entertainment. And the food is heavenly—a steaming bouillon, assorted sandwiches, cake and tea, all for 75 cents, with the fortune telling gratis. The Gypsy Tea Shop, 180 Tremont St. (42nd floor) is open every day from 11 A. M. to 8 P. M. Call Lib. 7455 for reservation.

Hip Reducer

Special Price, $8

Women who have "indulged in" foundation garments with elastic webbing have ruined their figures. Here is a new model hip reducer, made WITHOUT ELASTIC WEBBING. Extra charge for superfluous hair which makes complete foundation garment, when needed. An adjustable lacing on the side moulds the figure within graceful lines and smoothes away "bulges" and "spread" into the correct lines of the Corsette, comfortable to wear and easily laundered. A most unusual price to introduce it to you. Made for the individual. Call and try on a model before ordering elsewhere. Satisfaction guaranteed. CAPORN CORRECT CORSETRY STUDIO, 234 Boylston St., KEN. 4230, and 110 Tremont St., LIB. 6649.

I Met Rita Today

on the beaten trail that leads to the Pyramid Cleansing Shop She was fairly staggering under the heap of things she was taking there to be cleaned. Dresses, coats, hats! You know the Pyramid is under new management now, and we are simply thrilled with the marvelous work they are doing. They are absolutely reliable, and take but two or three days to do your cleansing and pressing in a manner that is the nearest thing to perfection and they charge but $1 for dresses and coats, men's suits and topcoats. Before having last year's hats remodeled, take them to Pyramid for cleaning. It costs but 75 cents—and when you see the result, you may not need to have them remodeled. The Pyramid Cleansing Shop, Fabyan Bldg., 26 West st., Rm. 602.

"But, It's too Bad—about that hair on her lips." A group of admirers (masculine of course) were lamenting the fact that a pretty, new girl on our staff spoiled her beauty by allowing a most unlovely growth of superfluous hair to remain on her face. This pretty little typist really owes it to herself to have it permanently removed, so I told her all about Miss Elizabeth Sparkes, the electric needle specialist, who has helped so many of our friends. She is so very conscientious, and her hands so deft and sure, you feel her capability the minute you see her. Her work is absolutely painless and permanent, and does not mark the skin. Miss Sparkes is at 126 Tremont St., Rm. 334, Tel. Han. 7592.

Uptown Styles $7.95

Shall we tell the down-town shoppers about the wonderful styles the uptown shoppers are getting at the Parklane Frocks or shall they too good to share, Anne? This is the shop of youth and lovable frocks! You'll understand why when you see the darling dresses I've sketched for Parklane dresses are "out" a month or two in advance — and are always much lower in price. Don't miss their Surprise Rack this week. Beautrimmed chiffons, lustrous flat crepes and prints, priced at $11.85 that are regular $16.50 dresses. Another group of the most bewitching styles is priced at $7.95. Wool tweed suits and one piece dresses at $10 are simply marvelous. The Parklane Frocks, 370 Washington St., Bank End of the Park Square Bldg. Arcade.

Evelyn Knows Best

Yes, she does, truly, Anne. She knows that frocks will be fashion-right for the next season—and furthermore, has them at prices that are purse right. It is just like putting your dress problems in the hands of your own private modiste when you tell Evelyn what you want—for dressy! before you can blink your eyes she has it. Those new Jacquard prints, which New York is raving about, flat crepes in glorious colors, chiffons that float like thistledown and glowing satin evening gowns—some in that gorgeous new Biarritz Blue. Evelyn's prices are—$6.95—$8.95 up. Chiffon stockings, $1.15, service-weight, 90 cents. Evelyn's Dress Shop, 8 Winter St.

New Sweaters!

At last I've discovered where those adorable new sweaters that look like blouses come from. All the best dressed girls in offices and schools are buying them at the Velvet Knitwear Stores, where sweaters and fine skirts are priced $2.98 each. There are silly new sweaters with imitation collars in contrasting colors, jabots, or perky handkies tucked in. All the newest shades, including the lovely new Lido blue. Flannel skirts to match are marvelous buys. Pleated or pleated, with yoke tops. For school girls, sizes 7 to 14, slipon sweaters in all the new stripe and solid effects are priced from $1.98 to $2.50 at the Victory Knitwear Stores, 370 Washington St. (Opp. Avery), 6 Tremont St., 20 Pleasant St., Malden.

If You Knew

that by massaging a magical liquid into your scalp twice a week your hair would recover from its thin, lifeless, unhealthy condition, and start to grow thick and in abundant, wouldn't you be impatient to know its name? Well, just try a bottle of Hairlene—it's the universal scalp tonic that dissolves all dandruff; adjusts oil ducts and promotes a glorious crop of thick, healthy hair. Menfolks find their bald spots filling in, and beauty seekers, like ourselves, Anne, find our hair becoming radiantly all a e, and rich in color, when we are faithful to Hairlene. It is sold by the Hairlene Laboratories, 8 Winter St., Rm. 710. $1 a 6 oz. bottle; $2 for 16 oz. You may order by mail.

Letters From Readers

Thinks Woman Values Stolen Kiss Too Highly

Editor Boston American:

There is a woman out in Kansas City, Mo., estimating that the kiss a parson stole from her recently is worth at least $5000. She is suing him for that sum. Stolen kisses are sweetest.

Is it not about time for women to change their value of kisses? They are altogether too high. I know of a dance hall where, before prohibition, they have a bargain list of kisses.

Why should it be considered in parish to kiss a strange woman. We would shake hands with one. But why not make all greeting of women with a kiss. This was done in ancient times. You read about it in the Bible. This lugging a kiss into a courtroom to make money out of it is, in my opinion, a great reflection upon any woman who practices it.

Beauty Reflection of Character, He Says

Editor Boston American:

That remark of Harvard students that there are but one or two really good looking girls in Radcliffe is no immature thing. The sponsor of this collegiate wisdom needs to be told, 'Have an other look.'

No man in a hundred is a judge of womanly beauty. We would do much if we could only improve the human race in health, vigor and energy by cultivating men's ideals of beauty in women.

It is not beauty of face that makes a beautiful woman. It is not merely regularity of outline, not a wonderful complexion, not a face that is commonly called pretty. It is character that makes beauty. It is as deep as the human soul. Nearly every great woman has been beautiful.

Would Use Spring in Tercentenary

Editor Boston American:

Last week I saw something in your paper about a spring seeping into a flower bed in Lounsburg. It is proposed to have water run from it to a tercentenary fountain at near-by point on Boston Common.

Fifty years ago a man told me that the spring of the Rev. William Blaxton, the original owner of Boston Common, was near what is now Walnut and Mt. Vernon sts. Blaxton bought the Common for $150.

Book Censors Should Adopt "Contrary" System

Editor Boston American:

Prof. G. H. Parker of Harvard University is right about the censorship of books. This professor said: "If you want to get books read never them with brown paper. Hide them away back on the shelf out of sight or lock them in a glass book case and have them marked, 'Not to be read by students, either male or female.'"

Human nature goes by contrariness. What you tell a person not to read he is sure to put himself out to read that book or pamphlet.

If you let every objectionable book lie on the table to be seen and read you will find out what is easy to get for reading matter will create no great stir. But once you say that a book must not be read, you start curiosity in that book and students will find some way to get it. Let them be exposed and see the interest in them die.

GEORGE H. LOVERING

Defends Prohibition by Law as Necessary

Editor Boston American:

I have seen several knocks at prohibition in your Letters to the Editor column.

You say: "You can't make people sober by law."

Well, the purpose of any law is not make people good, but to keep them within proper limitations so as not to interfere with the rights of others. Law means safety and efficiency.

You say: "Prohibition interferes with personal liberty."

Well, that's the nature of law. If personal liberty were not inimical to social progress there would be no need of law.

Because there are wholesale violations does not really destroy respect for law in the properly balanced mind.

HENRY T. THOMAS.

Many Things More Urgent Than Liquor

Editor Boston American:

The big questions today seem to be whether one is a dry or a wet and whether prohibition is a success or failure? It doesn't make me feel any too kindly towards my fellow citizens who hold this question of liquor in such high regard that they forget to think that there are bigger things to fight in this country.

If people would spend the time and energy they now spend on discussing the failures of prohibition and making home brew, in fighting disease, bettering sanitary conditions, in education that really matters, we would all be much better off.

I have spent evenings in homes where the only topic mentioned was where one can find the best bootlegger and what is the best recipe for beer, and what a farce the Volstead Act is. In the last respect, they have cause for argument, but nine times out of ten they find fault with the law itself.

Now any intelligent person can't be convinced that any good can come of over-stimulating the body seven, six or even one day a week.

If drinking should be done, it should be done moderately. But it is better to derive our stimulation from a perfect body where every cell is working. If this is so, why cannot the government taking away its citizens' liquor be compared to a mother taking away a harmful toy from her child?

Should the mother let the child hurt itself? Should the government change the law? She destroys the evil thing that threatens her child's happiness. Let us then destroy the evils that are hindering this country one of scofflaws, not the Volstead law, which is right in principle, but the obstructions in the path, the ignorance of the people who think that liquor is a necessity.

Musicians' Official Comments on Prices

(The following is a letter received by the Boston Evening American in reply to an article by the Romantic editor, Nicholas Young, last Saturday.)

Editor Boston American:

Sir: According to an article written by Nicholas Young for the American, Florenz Ziegfeld feels he is "skun alive" by musicians and stage hands every time he attempts to produce a new musical play in Boston.

The article referred to is under the caption of "Producers Grin and Bear It," speaking for the musicians, I would ordinarily take no notice of such treatment accorded us, but to refrain from answering said article would be to invite other despicable attempts on the part of so-called protected interests to mold public against organization.

The musicians seem to be the target once again and the ones who are forced to "Grin and Bear It," not the theatrical interests.

Mr. Ziegfeld, or any of others in the immediate circle, would not be considered at any time in any precarious position of locating funds sufficient to pay for the construction of million-dollar palaces throughout the country in order to continue their more or less unprecedented prosperity.

Of course, some excuse must be given the public to justify such terrific box office prices it is asked to pay to see star attractions.

The producers should allow the public to decide how little real money is spent for those who are really responsible in constructing the production, in comparison to the immense profits directed in other channels.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS H. FINIGAN,
President Local No. 9, A. F. of M.

Says Title "Most Reverend" Is Not Authentic

Editor Boston American:

That title before the name of the Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, "Most Reverend," has never been adopted by the church in general convention.

It is the creation of a layman in charge of a publishing house in Milwaukee. All papers published this title.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The scientific substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively. But their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and revolting.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never troubled with constipation, a bad breath, a dull, listless, no good feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound known to most every druggist. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week, see how much better you feel and look. 10c, 30c, 60c.

"My Skin Nearly Drove Me Mad"

"I had pimples and blackheads so badly, and used to squeeze them so much that my face looked red and raw. On the advice of a nurse friend I got a jar of Bowles Mentho-Sulphur and used it faithfully for ten days. In 5 days' time there was a big difference in my skin and today I am so glad to say it is as fine as my dear old sister's."

The sulphur in Bowles Mentho-sulphur clears the skin while the Menthol heals the sore, broken tissue. That's the twofold action you want for skin troubles. Try Bowles Mentho-sulphur not only for pimples and blackheads, but for dry, scaly skin, rash, and itching eczema. IT WORKS! All druggists sell it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Bowles.

Christens Balloon With Milk

Berlin, Feb. 3 (AP)—The minister of food and agriculture which urged the drinking of milk instead of beer, has sent up a balloon, christened with a bottle of milk, on an endurance flight over the country.

Dies in Electric Chair

Reidsville, Pa., Feb. 3 (AP)—Giuseppe Giuda, 37, of Bucks County was electrocuted at Rockview penitentiary today. Giuda was pronounced dead four minutes after the executioner released the current.

News and Gossip of Society; Forecasts of Events in Greater Boston

MANY DINNERS TO PRECEDE OPERA

THERE IS NO MORE BRILLIANT event in Boston's social calendar during the entire year than the opening night of the Chicago Civic Opera's two week season here. The inspiring greeting of the Wagnerite will be listened to by all of fashionable Boston—the ultra smart ones will be seated in the orchestra and dress boxes, the rest in the orchestra and orchestra circle. Many dinner parties will be given this evening whose topic will bring their guests to the Grand Wagnerian marvelous music interpreted by Mmes. Ponzillo, Turner Olszewska and Messrs. Kappel, Cehanovsky and Mme. P. Eristow Draper of Dorchester is well entertaining at dinner and in their opera box. Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kiley, Mr. and Mrs. John Coolidge and Miss Mary Welch, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Welch, and Mrs. Robert Amory and Mrs. Robert Amory, Jr., are among those who are sharing a box for the season. Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Cabot are entertaining the ones facing Mr. and Mrs. Barbara Dorchester, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Coolidge and the preceding dinner.

Every month, her mother must tell them at the office. Another business girl who has not discovered Midol! The periodic discomfort does not interfere with duty when these wonderful tablets are taken. They bring complete ease in five to seven minutes; no matter how difficult a time you've always had! Midol is marvelous, as countless women can tell you. And it is non-narcotic, as any druggist familiar with the formula can assure you. The quick and complete relief is due to its acting directly on the organs affected. Midol is obtainable at any drugstore for fifty cents, in metal case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

COURT FINDS FOR WOMAN IN LOVE SUIT

By GERTRUDE LADY DECIES
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

London, Feb. 3.—"It is absurd to say today, just as it would have been absurd to say 50 years ago that men and women should be treated in the same way."

Thus Justice Humphreys has cast his lot with the feminine cause in the confusion of the increasing masculine opinion that a woman should be as liable in a breach of promise suit as a man. He delivered this opinion during the hearing of a breach of promise case brought by a woman in the King's Bench division the other day.

"Men and women are not the same," he added, "and neither an act of Parliament nor anything else will ever make them the same.

"It does no harm to a man to be engaged and have the engagement broken off. Nobody thinks the worse of him. But everybody knows that a girl who is engaged to be married, and has been engagatulated by her friends, is wounded in her feelings when the man announces without reason that he has altered his mind."

It seems an early day yet to talk of debutantes but as a matter of fact the all-important question of who is to be presented at court this year has already been decided on in most family circles, for applications for presentation have to reach the lord chamberlain by the first post on New Year's Day.

Already hundreds of requests have been received from proud mothers, grandmothers and aunts to be permitted to bring bright young things to make their curtsies to the king and queen. Speculation is rampant as to who will be among the chosen.

The problem finds the lord chamberlain with an abundance of work. He is busy sorting out the applications and scrutinizing the names, for in his hands rests the social destinies of many young girls.

Markham Tells Boys of Lincoln

Edwin Markham, who wrote "The Man With the Hoe," which famous poem has been translated into 20 languages, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the junior high newsboys at the Burroughs Newsboys Foundation.

The 80-year-old man of letters took for his text a subject close to every American boy's heart, the life of Abraham Lincoln—and climaxed his remarks by reading his own poem on the immortal President, which he composed for and read at the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial at Washington.

Skating Calls for Smart Costumes at All Times

IT has come to the point where it is almost as important to have a skating costume in your winter wardrobe as it is to have at least one tennis frock in your summer one. Protest as you will that you don't skate well enough to warrant one but it will make no difference—you must learn to cut a smart figure on the ice. And once the glamorous glitter of the ice captures you—you will become an ardent enthusiastic, wabbly skater or no.

Indoor skating has become such a tremendous fad in both London and Paris that there is a new impetus given to sports wear of this type. Over here outdoor skating is more popular than indoor although many of the large indoor boast fashionable rinks inside as well as outside.

THE skating costume is the one remaining stronghold of the very brief skirt. In order to give the skater ample freedom of the limb, all skating skirts are made with extreme fulness and come knee length or a bit longer.

For indoor skating, costumes have more latitude in design. Wool dresses, heavy blouses or soft sweaters worn with separate skirts or trim jacket outfits are suitable. Out of doors, however, the complete sports woman will choose for warmth as well as chic. Warm gloves, socks and scarfs, comfortably lined jackets worn with heavy skirts, fur jackets and other warmth-giving aids should be the best choice.

THE two professional looking skaters caught in the picture, here, are correctly garbed for either indoor or outdoor rinks. Black monopish fashions the coat and skirt of the nonchalant, balancing young person at the left. The short coat is reversible, black on one side and red on the other.

The skirt and the scarf ends combine the black and red colorings in a mixture. Because she is skating in a moderate temperature this skater wears simply leather pullon gloves and soft beret in place of a warmer and woollier combination which she would choose for the outdoors.

Her companion has chosen wisely for her costume. It consists of a soft chamois shirt worn tucked into a circular corduroy skirt. When outside she dons a brief double-breasted jacket of natural colored lambskin. This jacket is lined with waterproof leather and may be worn reversibly. The buttons match of the same fur.

Fur Anklets Are Steps Toward Winter Warmth

DECORATIVE cuffs for sports hose have taken an exceptional top from bats and frocks and are this winter employing for banking. Instead of bright knitted designs, bands of fluffy fur or short, sleek varieties top the skiing boot or the skating shoe. The socks are usually of wool or silk and wool, and the fur often matches some other bit of fur on cap or gloves.

Lapin Cape Makes Its Bow for Street Wear

IF you have wondered whether the cape of fur would be good this winter, the news of a lapin cape for street wear will put an end to such questioning. The cape, in seven-eighths length, is lined with tweed that matches the dress of the ensemble. It has fitted shoulders and is styled to create a slender silhouette.

Short shoulder capes of fur are seen on many of the cloth coats this winter and cape collars of smooth galyak accompany coats of the same fur.

Town Sports Ensembles Are Gaining Friends

WHETHER we are devoted to the great outdoors or prefer taking our ozone and our exercise on the city's pavement, we many now wear a costume that is appropriate for either country or town. Town sports ensembles are developing into a necessary type.

And with all the very smart sport clothes that are making appearance we can understand the popularity of such suits. One of these ensembles consists of smart tweed or jersey frock with three-quarter length raglan jacket of lapin, lined with matching tweed.

Curley Praises St. Helena's House

In a recent communication to Sister Superior of St. Helena's House, 89 Union Park st., Mayor Curley said: "For a number of years I have been particularly interested in the activities of St. Helena's House and have been gratified beyond measure to note from year to year the progress it has been making in providing much needed accommodations for the young women who come to our city.

"Its conduct by the Grey Nuns is in itself a powerful endorsement of its great work, but I am prompted to write you and tell you that the work you are conducting is of an invaluable aid to this city."

INSTRUMENTS OF BYGONE ERA HEARD

By MOSES SMITH

Two concerts yesterday began—and ended—the musical week, for there is no other concert listed until a week from tomorrow, when the Symphony Orchestra returns. This dearth of activity in the concert hall constitutes a record. The reason, of course, is that the "opera is here." Concert managers don't wish to compete with this established institution.

The concert of the Casadesus Old Instrument Society, which attracted a large and unusually cordial audience to the Repertory Theater, was thoroughly delightful. The players of the four ancient stringed instruments and the clavecin, who have been heard here several times, never performed to better advantage. They played a delightful program of old and rather unfamiliar music with delightful artistry.

Emma Hoyt, possessor of a clear soprano voice, sang three groups of songs in this setting very well, indeed. She not only sang well, but was also an excellent interpreter. Beautifully she pressed the archaic quality of the songs. She injected into her performance just enough personality. Her enunciation, in both English and French, was admirable. Her one obvious failing—and it was a serious one—was a constant and distressing tendency to sing slightly flat.

Almost simultaneously the Civic Symphony Orchestra, an organization of people who play because they like to, led by Joseph F. Wagner, was giving a concert at Jordan Hall before a good-sized audience. The program consisted of Mendelssohn's Overture to "Athalia," a Ballet Suite of Rameau's music, Glinka's "Kamarinskaja," "La Rumba," a Cuban Rhapsody, by Quinto Maganini, played here for the first time, and Schumann's Symphony in C major. Marguerite LaLaberte sang the "Bell Song" from "Lakme." What we heard of the program was very well played.

Nikolai Orloff, Russian pianist, gave an extraordinarily fine performance in the same hall on the he on one of the great masterpieces of pieceding matime, indicating that our time, Mozart, Schumann, Chopin, Balakireff, Debussy and Liszt were on the program.

A YEAR AGO TODAY

marks the first anniversary of the opening of my new galleries on Newbury Street

Before my removal from Boylston Street, Boston had never had a building of this size and type devoted entirely to antiques—a treasure-house in which for the first time antiques could be adequately and harmoniously displayed. Some of my customers ventured to tell me that I was extremely foolish to undertake such a big venture in Boston. I am glad to say that their judgment was not correct. Not only have the antique lovers of New England been frequent visitors and buyers at my galleries but I have had the good fortune to sell antiques to people from practically every State in the Union, with the result that this year has been one of unusual success. A success that I attribute in a great measure not only to the new galleries (I am positive in my mind that the proper setting for rare objects of art at once enhances their beauty as nothing else can) but to the principle upon which my business has been built—namely that of obtaining antiques that are authentic and of the finest type of their period with which I voluntarily give a written guarantee of authenticity. Also to the fact that no other dealer has the buying connections and representatives that I have in Great Britain, which enables me to turn over my stock at very frequent intervals, thus enabling my representatives to purchase antiques that I am able to sell at prices far more moderate than would otherwise be the case.

To my customers who have been so loyal to me, especially during this last year, I am deeply grateful, and I trust that during this year to come I shall have the pleasure of being able to have in my galleries as many fine pieces as I have had in the past.

To those who have never had the pleasure of inspecting my galleries I extend a cordial invitation and can assure them that they will be welcome to enjoy the collection without being importuned to purchase.

MAYOR CURLEY TO TALK AT CLUB LUNCHEON

PROBABLY the first appearance of Mayor James M. Curley, before a woman's club will take place February 18, when he is scheduled to address the Professional Woman's Club at its monthly luncheon meeting in the Hotel Statler.

The mayor is one of a long list of prominent Bostonians who are scheduled to appear and speak.

Mrs. Mabel Mann Jordan, president of the Professional Women's Club, will preside and introduce the mayor, calling upon him for suggestions as to how her powerful organization can assist him in the administration of his office.

With him, at he head table, will be seated Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, first vice-president of the General Federation; Rear Admiral Philip Andrews; Mrs. Eva Whiting White, president of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union; Frank Palmer Speare, president of Southeastern University; Mrs. Speare; Nancy Byrd Turner, poetess; Henry A. Sassoino of Harvard University, and players from the downtown theaters.

Mrs. M. H. Guiesian has charge of the musical program and will introduce Mme. Rose Sulalian, Edward Ransom and Miss Yvonne Dea Eschert, accompanist, by Leland Clark.

Mrs. Asa H. Weeks has charge of the tickets and heads the hospitality committee.

BUSY MONTH AHEAD

The February program of the club is indeed an imposing one. All kinds of meetings are scheduled.

Doctors' evening will be observed tomorrow night at 8 p. m. in the Georgian room of the Hotel Statler. Doctor Agnes C. Vietor is chairman for the evening.

The speakers will include Alice Hamilton, M. D., associate professor of industrial medicine, Harvard University, on "Industrial Medicine"; Isabelle D. Kerr, M. D., laryngologist, New England Hospital for Women and Children, assistant surgeon in same, at Massachusetts General Hospital, "The Common Cold and Its Possibilities"; Lula Owen Balbank, M. D., adult hygiene division, Massachusetts department of public health, "The Bogey Parties."

The musical program has been arranged by Miss Margaret Gow. The meeting is open. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Charles H. Ferguson, chairman of broadcasts, will present, February 17, Mrs. Nelson W. Hoxsie, who will talk on "Patriotism"; Marie Murray, contralto, and Grace Warner Gulesian, pianist.

It will be noticed that the club broadcasts have been changed from Wednesdays to Monday after noon from 1:20 to 5 p. m.

The first business meeting of the month will take place on "Tuesday," February 11, at 2 o'clock, in the Belle Moderne. At 2:45, guests will be admitted, and Mrs. M. H. Gulesian, chairman of programs, will present Miss Mary L. Foss, who will read from her father's poems; Miss Inez Day, pianist; Mrs. Suzanne Wayland Chuck, contralto; Mrs. Minnie Stratton Watson, accompanist. The tea, which follows at 4:30, will be presided over by Mrs. Charlotte M. Hanscom and Mrs. Belle G. Chaffee.

Mrs. May C. Howard, vice-chairman of the club rooms, announces Mrs. Caroline Rissland, Miss Anna E. Grantham and Mrs. Henrietta G. Tighe to have charge of the club rooms for February. She also reports that there will be no bridge party during the month. All efforts are to be made for the rummage sale whist, to be held on a latter date.

WINTHROP CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB

The emergency fund, founded and maintained by the members of the executive board, will reap the monetary rewards of the bridge tea to be conducted by the executive board at Filene's Restaurant next Saturday at 3 p. m.

Miss Ursula E. Muldoon is chairman of the affair and has as assistants Mrs. Albert E. Kelsey, president; Mrs. Wallace A. Pratt, first vice-president; Mrs. Joseph P. Fleming, second vice-president; Mrs. William A. Burton, recording secretary; Miss Ernest H. Peveal, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Patrick J. Macken, treasurer; Mrs. Bartholomew J. A'Hearn, Mrs. Louis Enos, Mrs. John J. Gilligan, Mrs. J. Arthur Merrill, Mrs. Thomas E. McLaughlin and Mrs. D. J. Donovan.

CLUB MEETINGS

During the week five meetings are scheduled for the clubrooms of the Saturia Tea Co., in the Stuart and Berkeley sts. building.

Today 60 members of the Eastern Star Women's Club of Auburndale held a bridge party, of which Mrs. Edgar J. Nevins was in charge. The second meeting of the Old Belfry Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, takes place tomorrow with Mrs. Frank Patten in the chair.

Fifty members of the Episcopal Church Guild of Wollaston will hold a second Boston Tea Party on Wednesday in the tea building. After a short inspection of the premises the women will play bridge and then tea will be served. Mrs. H. K. Ellis is in charge of this party.

On Thursday 30 members of the Woodbourne Women's Club, of which Mrs. William H. Prescott is president, will visit the building and hold a bridge later. Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins has charge of the arrangements. The Social Order of Beauseant, Malden Chapter, will hold a bridge party in the tea building next Friday after an inspection. Mrs. S. Stephens is in charge.

WEST ROXBURY WOMAN'S CLUB

The first public concert of the chorus of the West Roxbury Woman's Club takes place tomorrow night in the Robert G. Shaw school hall. Assisting artists will be Mrs. Harriette Clark Price, contralto soloist, and the Randall Trio, Sally Dodge, violin, Ruth Loveloy, 'cello, and Helen Calhoun, piano.

The present chorus came together six years ago to provide music for a special Christmas program. It has since continued under the leadership of the director, Mrs. William N. Odell. It has become an individual and distinctive organization, having its own by-laws, a secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Guy W. Mitchell; a librarian, Mrs. Beulah M. Palmer, and business manager, Mrs. Alonzo G. Howard.

During these six years the chorus has provided incidental music for both its own club program and that of other clubs. It has presented a concert and has broadcasted. It is to give a concert at Bridgewater in March.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB OF MASSACHUSETTS

"Should Capital Punishment in Massachusetts Be Abolished?" The joint legislative committee on legal affairs has turned down the recent petition but despite that the question will be discussed pro and con before the club members next Thursday at 11 a. m. in Assembly Hall under the auspices of the Political Department. Mrs. Nelson W. Howard, director.

Mrs. Herbert B. Ehrmann, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Council for the Abolition of the Death Penalty will speak on the affirmative side, while Grenace L. Archer, dean of Suffolk Law School, will oppose.

The Activities Department is sponsoring a theater party on Miss Jane Richards on "Public Question Home and Foreign," to be given next Saturday at 10:45 a. m.

NAHANT WOMAN'S CLUB

"Legislation in Women's Clubs" will be discussed by Mrs. L. F. Streeter of Springfield at the annual legislation day program of the club scheduled tomorrow at the Maolis clubhouse at 3 p. m. Mrs. Streeter has been identified with political and legislative work in her district and will for the most part reveal the activities of the club with which she has come in contact.

Mrs. Burdette L. Webster, president, will handle the gavel at the business meeting and make the formal announcement of a bridge and whist party at the same place on February 7 at 8 p. m. The committee in charge of this entertainment will be Mrs. Frank J. Carroll, chairman; Mrs. Matthew Cassen and Mrs. Walter A. Dance.

Tea hostesses for the legislative day meeting will be Mrs. Fred L. Timmins and Mrs. Sidney Doane.

WOMEN'S ITALIAN CLUB

Under the direction of its president, Mrs. Delphina Repetto, the club will observe "guest day" on Wednesday at the Hotel Vendome. At 2:30 members and guests will pay special tribute to visitors of the day, Commendatore Pio Margotti, royal Italian consul; Mrs. Ida A. Packard, state president; Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, first vice president; Mrs. Carl L. Watson, president City Federation, and Mrs. William J. McDonald, sixth district director.

WARDEN FEARS AUBURN RIOT

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—Max Becker, Brooklyn gunman, who was the first man to be indicted for murder as a result of the December riot at Auburn Prison, will go on trial February 17.

Warden John L. Hoffman will "breath easier," he said, when the trial of the six convicts and Becker is over.

The trial has caused a tenseness at the prison, according to the warden.

Charged with killing Principal Keeper George A. Durnford, Becker appeared today before Supreme Court Judge Cunningham when the trial was to have begun but his case was set for February 17. This was to allow completion of proceedings against six of Becker's fellow-prisoners, also charged with murder for the death of Henry Sullivan, riot leader, of Buffalo.

After the formalities were completed, Becker, handcuffed, was led back to solitary confinement at the prison.

BELIEVE YOUTH SLAIN, HANGED

Westbrook, Ct., Feb. 3 (INS)—Working on a murder theory state police and Coroner Lowndes A. Smith today investigated the death of an unidentified young man whose frozen body was found suspended from a tree in the Horse Hill section of this town. His wrists were crossed and bound tightly with a handkerchief.

A slender rope was tied around the throat and the body rested partly against the tree and partly was held up by the rope.

Coroner Smith said he did not believe the rope caused death, although the cause was probably strangulation, and that it was unlikely the youth tied his own hands. All marks of identification had been removed.

SOVIETS FEAR RAID ON PARIS EMBASSY

Paris, Feb. 3 (AP)—M. Dovgalevsky, Soviet ambassador in Paris, today officially informed Foreign Minister Briand that followers of Gen. Alexander Paul Koutiepoff, leader of the Russian Royalists, had organized a force to make a descent upon the Soviet embassy here.

Gen. Koutiepoff, who succeeded the Grand Duke Nicholas as head of the Russian exiles in Paris, mysteriously disappeared a week ago and there have been numerous rumors that he had been kidnaped by Soviet secret police and was being held prisoner in the Russian embassy building.

So strong were these rumors that several Paris papers published them and even devoted space to discussing the procedure that could be followed by the French police in case it should prove true that the general were held there.

Koutiepoff was supposed to have been spirited in the street as he was walking the few blocks between his home and the Russian officers' club.

Moscow, Feb. 3 (AP)—Possibility of a raid by Russian Royalists on Paris on the Soviet embassy as an outgrowth of the disappearance of Gen. Alexander Paul Koutiepoff, leader of the Royalists, was reported today.

M. Dovgalevsky, Soviet ambassador, urged that special measures be taken to protect the Soviet embassy and said his Government would hold the French authorities responsible.

"The Koutiepoff affair has produced much ill feeling on the part of the Russian press against the attitude felt here to have been taken by France. The press complains bitterly of what it describes as the passive and indifferent attitude of the French Government in the face of continued provocative acts against the Soviet regime on the part of Russian white guards and others residing in France."

Mrs. Oberholtzer, Poet, Dies at 89

Philadelphia, Feb. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Sara Louise Oberholtzer, poet and author and intimate friend of John Greenleaf Whittier, is dead at her home here. She was 89.

In her long life Mrs. Oberholtzer wrote much poetry. She was the author of a novel, "Hope's Heart Holds," and of many magazine articles.

HOOVER GOING SOUTH SOON

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—It was announced at the White House today that President Hoover hopes to get away for four of five days on a fishing trip at Long Key, Fla., some time soon.

If the President is able to arrange the trip he will go directly from Washington to Long Key without any stops. He will board a boat probably the Sanderling, and spend the entire time on the reef. He will make no speeches or appearances on his way south or on the return trip.

Mrs. Hoover probably will accompany him.

The Sanderling is a houseboat belonging to Jerry Milbank, treasurer of the eastern division of the Republican national committee.

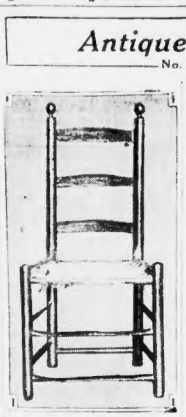
Washington, Feb. 3 (INS)—The appointment of Charles E. Rugg of Massachusetts as assistant attorney general was approved today by the Senate judiciary committee.

Antique a Day

No. 13



Today we remember another type of Colonial chair from a home in Greater Boston. The chair shown above is a fan-back side chair typical of the earliest Pilgrim models. It is owned by Mrs. J. L. Stanley of Lexington st., Medford, and is one of many family heirlooms with which her home is furnished. An expert will discuss the authenticity of this piece tomorrow.

The doll chair shown yesterday is of maple, and of a slightly later date of manufacture than the one shown in this column. The workmanship of the miniature chair is in many respects superior to that to be found in the average household furniture of the times. The apprentice usually put his best skill into the job of turning out his little masterpiece. Typical of the workmanship is the turning of the rear stretcher, which is usually plain in the small-sized Carver chairs. These chairs are so named from the Colonial governor of that name.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available, the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

Birthday Candles Light City Hall

For nearly an hour today the City Hall telephone operators carried on the city business by candlelight when an illumination failed in City Hall Annex. The dark day which caused nearly every light in the historic structure to be pressed into service prevented the generating engines from supplying the necessary added juice.

The right elevator in the two structures' bank, which Miss Agnes Daly, chief operator, came to the rescue by remembering the girls had a birthday party with cake some weeks ago, upon which were placed a number of candles. She had saved them.

CONSTANCE BENNETT, DIVORCE WINNER, TO GIVE ALL HER TIME TO FILMS

WILL STAR FIRST IN 'LIPSTICK'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

CONSTANCE BENNETT, a la Paris divorce, from Henry Plant all granted her by Reno ahead of her, arrives in Hollywood next week.

Louella Parsons

Constance had planned to sail for Europe immediately after the divorce was granted, but changed her mind and will remain in Hollywood for a while at least.

Constance will make her first picture for Paramount, "Lipstick," a story by Adela Rogers St. Johns. Constance has been offered many stories since her arrival in Hollywood, but has refused them all, waiting for the one she wanted.

"Lipstick" is a story of the stage, and Constance will play the part of a musical comedy star. Her leading man will be Ralph Forbes, who is now in Europe.

Constance is very much pleased with the story, and says it is the best she has read since she arrived in Hollywood. She is also pleased with the fact that she will be working with Ralph Forbes, whom she has known for many years.

Constance will begin work on "Lipstick" as soon as she returns from her honeymoon with Henry Plant, which will be spent in Europe.

Constance is very much in love with Henry Plant, and says she is very happy. She is also very much in love with her new husband, and says she is very happy with him.

College Sixes Swing Back Into Action This Week

MARQUETTE AND HARVARD TO BATTLE

This Week's Hockey

TOMORROW NIGHT
Bruins vs. Detroit at Garden.
WEDNESDAY
Harvard vs. Marquette at Garden.
THURSDAY
University Club vs. Boston University at Arena.
FRIDAY
Interscholastic League at Arena.
SATURDAY
Tigers vs. Springfield at Garden.
Exeter vs. Andover at Arena (afternoon).

By BILL GRIMES

NOW that the mid-year examinations are over, the college hockey teams swing back into action this week. Harvard meets Marquette at the Garden on Wednesday night and Boston University takes on the University Club the following evening at the Arena.

After a two-week lay off, Coach Joe Stubbs brought his Crimson puck chasers together last Thursday and he expects to have his charges in prime condition for the invasion of the Milwaukee collegians. Coach Stubbs is anxiously awaiting a report from the Harvard office as to whether or not Bobby Giddens succeeded in getting off probation. The return of Giddens to the Harvard lineup will be the making of the Crimson sextet.

Bill Grimes

MARQUETTE UNKNOWN

Although little is known in the East of the strength of Marquette, Pudge McKenzie and Don McFayden are the outstanding players. McKenzie and McFayden are from Calgary and a number of pro clubs are said to be angling for the latter.

At present, the University Club-Boston University game is the only contest booked for Thursday night at the Arena, but an attempt is being make to tie up the Boston Hockey Club with a suitable opponent for the same evening.

The Arena will be the scene of the annual Exeter-Andover battle, which will be staged Saturday afternoon. Although both the Red and Blue have been very successful this season, the Granite State prep school appears to have the edge, due in the main to the leadership of Frank Shirley, the former Newton high all around star.

SCHOOLS PLAY FRIDAY

The Interscholastic Hockey League will gather at the Arena Friday night. Melrose, Newton and Arlington have elected their places for the round robin, with Stoneham, Rindge and Woburn battling for the odd place.

The Detroit Cougars and the Springfield Indians will be two professional teams to display their wares here this week. The Bruins and the Cougars will mix it up tomorrow night at the Garden and the Tigers will make another attempt to get back the Indians at the Garden next Saturday night.

Coast Catcher Dies From Burns

Los Angeles, Feb. 3 (AP)—Gus Sandberg, veteran catcher for the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League, died here early today.

Sandberg, formerly with the New York Giants, had been severely burned about the head yesterday when the gasoline tank of his car exploded.

Sandberg came here several years ago from the New York Giants. He was 34 years old. Police said Sandberg drained the tank of his car and then lighted a match to see if it was empty. A blast that caught he ball player full in the face followed.

Kansas City, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Kansas City American Legion's heavyweight wrestling tournament, which it hopes will develop a logical challenger for the crown now claimed by Gus Sonnenberg, is scheduled to open here February 13.

Wrestlers who have posted their forfeit money include "Strangler" Lewis, Stanley Stasiak, Joe Stecher and Pat McGill.

MR. BOSTON

by JACK CONWAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3—I found Mr. Boston atching the bathing beauties at the Roney-Plaza pool.

"Most of the swell dolls with the fancy bathing costumes never go into the water," said the veteran. "They pose around and take the sun.

Jack Conway

"Then there are guys who pay $1 on week days and $1.50 on Sundays to get into the pool who are not interested in the water.

"Now if the dolls get a kick posing around in their dossy bathing gowns and going on parade in their beach pajamas and the guys like to take a peek at them, I suppose it's all right.

"There is a legend at the pool about a classy blonde once so far forgot herself as to dive into the pool and swim around. Most of the splashing, as you can see for yourself, is done by a flock of homely janes who figure they look much better under water.

"Of course if somebody just wants to go swimming, he has miles of ocean at his disposal and nobody is asking him for $1 and $1.50 before he takes off.

"THE flappers wear long dresses when on evening parade, but they don't conceal so much at one of the pools. Bathing suits minus a back are still popular, while the dolls are still strong for the slim straps which go over their shoulders.

"It is considered perfectly proper for a doll to sit in the sun on one of the marble slabs at the edge of the Roney-Plaza pool, and with a string of the shoulder, drop one strap and permit the sun to do its stuff on the bare shoulder. Later the same treatment is applied to the other shoulder.

"These pools are not such bad places for a guy to hang out who doesn't care to go swimming and who isn't interested in horse races, dog races, boxing, and such things.

"WHEN the dolls feel they have inhaled enough sun they parade up to balconies which surround the pool, rest themselves at tables and have a bite to eat. They say that some of the dolls even bring a flask along. They argue it is quite difficult to eat a dry sandwich, and they don't intend to try.

"They say that at some of the classy shops near the pools, where they are supposed to be selling such innocent things as coral shells, that one can step right up to the bar and get a cooling drink. It is hinted that such places hand out as good liquor as folks up in New England used to get before prohibition.

"It appears that a million or so yachts and boats are breezing between Havana and here pleasure bound. And nobody gets fussy if each boat only takes along a few cases of this and that.

"The climate is quite warm and the warm not so good. So what is a doll and a guy going to do if they happen to get thirsty?

"I UNDERSTAND that a great many people who are coming here to see Sharkey and Scott box on February 27 figure that the fight is as good an excuse as any to get into the sunshine and also to look over the parade at the pools.

"Anyhow it is a whole lot better than shoveling snow or trying to keep the furnace from going out.

"FOR the information of anybody who may not be interested in dolls it might be well to mention that Sharkey boxed two rounds with Johnny Grosso and looked very good, and that he also did some bag punching, rope skipping and shadow boxing for six more frames.

"Meanwhile, Phil Scott permitted the boys to take a few pictures of him while he officially opened his training camp at Miami.

"The weather has become quite warm, which fact will probably not prove of any comfort to the folks back home."

THE greatest international amateur boxing show in the history of the sport in Boston will be staged tonight in the Garden, when a team of United States boxers defends its laurels against teams from Italy and Germany.

The tournament is being staged by the A. S. A. U., famous sponsor of amateur boxing, and is under the direction of William H. Lufkin, member of amateur boxing in this country.

Lufkin has selected the eight individuals who will represent New England to represent the United States in the international warfare. He named Eddie Sullivan of East Walpole and Vic Toth of Marlboro, golden glove champion in the fly-weight class; Charlie Kelly of Newton, the state champion, and Vernon Merlin of Roslindale, golden glove champion, in the welter-weight class; Ring Larson of Quincy, state titleholder for two years, and Eino Nyholm, rugged Maynard battler in the 160 pounds class, and Al Dean of Medford, golden glove champion, and Mardochee Saggese of Winthrop, state champion, in the heavyweight division.

Hub Fans Will Flock to Argonne Opener

AL FRIEDMAN, Roslindale heavyweight, will do all his training in Philadelphia for his impending ring conflict with Jimmy Maloney of South Boston, which will mark the reopening of the Argonne A. A. at Mechanics Building, Wednesday night, February 12.

This heavyweight bout, the net proceeds of which will be turned over to the fund for the family of the late Patrolman James Troy, looms up as one of the most important matches staged in this city. The contest, incidentally, will mark Eddie Mack's initial gesture in the boxing game with his former club after 14 months.

In clinching the match between Maloney and Friedman, Mack has prepared a match for the opening show of his new club which is one of the fistic gems of the season. Hub fans have long looked forward to a meeting between these rivals, but Maloney's refusal to consider a match with the Roslindale boy always has blocked the plans of the promoters.

Friedman's aggressiveness in the ring is expected to prove a weapon that will completely discount the methods of Maloney, and thousands of local fans feel certain that the Roslindale Hebrew will end the winning streak of the South Boston man.

Maloney already has gone to Wanesit, where he will do his training for the match, and the fact that he is still being considered for a place on the Miami card will force the Peninsula idol to be at his best for this bout.

This charity boxing show is expected to prove one of the most successful ever conducted in the Hub, and already many prominent Bostonians have offered their services to put the affair over.

The preliminary card is being arranged to support the heavyweight bout.

HUNTER PLAYS WADSWORTH

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—Given a full day of rest over Sunday, survivors of the preliminary play in the national indoor singles tennis championships were prepared for their next tests today.

Frank Hunter of New Rochelle, a heavy favorite to capture the title which was won last year but is not being defended by Jean Borotra, was matched with S. J. Wadsworth of New York today. J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., second choice to Hunter, was pitted against a veteran, Abraham Bassford of New York.

Uda Zaenglein of Germany was opposed to a seeded player, Merritt Cutler of New York, and elimination of the only foreign entrant was anticipated.

Julius Seligson of Lehigh and Richard Murphy of Harvard, former junior indoor champion, were to make their appearances of the tournament. Seligson was matched with Jack Blaustein, New York, and Murphy with Thomas Cahalan of Fordham.

Robert Little of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was given little chance of remaining in the running against Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines and Harvard. Kenneth Appel of South Orange, former Princeton star, was pitted against Reginald Talmadge, New York.

Hoppe Plans Tour of South America

Chicago, Feb. 3 (AP)—Willie Hoppe, former world 18.2 balkline billiard champion, has started on an exhibition tour which will carry him into Mexico, Cuba and South America. Hoppe plans to spend most of his time in the Argentine.

FULLER FACES BIG CHANCE

Sammy Fuller, North End featherweight, will receive his chance to step into the ranks of the champions when he meets Benny Bass, junior lightweight title holder, in a 10-round battle at the Garden Friday night.

Bass, one of the greatest gate attractions in the game, is to receive a guarantee of $7500 for meeting Fuller. He is a tremendous puncher, and the customers like punchers, be they big or be they small.

Bass will be pitted against one of the few survivors in the local boxing ranks. Arthur Flynn was swept to defeat last Friday night by Ace Hudkins, and the brigade of local topnotch boxers has been almost annihilated by hostile foot injuries.

Fuller has been keeping his place among the leaders in the ho-hum weeks, he has defeated Jack Zeramby and Johnny Farr, and he is confident that he will smash a way to victory over Bass.

Fuller has been working with Albion Holden, former amateur star, Johnny Barrett of Cambridge and Frankie Mason at Eckardt's Gym every afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bass will arrive Wednesday, in time to train at one of the local muscle factories.

Vittorio Livan, hard-hitting middleweight star from Italy, has been signed to meet Pal Silvey of New York in the 10-round semi-final bout.

Wanderers Win, 6-0

Brooklyn, Feb. 3. The Brooklyn Wanderers qualified for the second round of the national challenge cup competition by easily knocking out the Montclair Cameros by a 6 to 0 score at Hawthorne Field before 1500 in a first-round cup tie game.

Non-Scout Agreement

Chicago, Feb. 3. (AP)—Chicago and Princeton again have agreed not to scout each other next fall for the fourth football game of their series.

Baseball Magnates to Meet Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—A good part of the baseball fraternity was back in New York today prepared to talk and perhaps to trade.

The International and Eastern Leagues were to meet today but public interest was reserved for the annual schedule meeting of the National League at the Commodore Hotel tomorrow.

Except for the schedule itself the National League was confronted with little business of importance although there was a possibility that several trades, under consideration for some time, might be completed before the meeting breaks up.

A number of deals are understood to be on the fire now and may reach the boiling point within the next few days. Dame Rumor, ever active where ball players are concerned, has it that the Pittsburgh Pirates are ready to trade Burleigh Grimes, star right-handed spitballer, for a second baseman who can combine a little hitting with his fielding.

Grimes, according to reports, is asking for a contract of $25,000 for the 1930 season, a price that Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, hardly will be inclined to pay. The Pirates may find a market for Grimes in Cincinnati.

Dazzy Vance is another pitcher whose future appears a bit dimmed. It is understood the Brooklyn Robins are trying to shave about $5000 off the contract they gave the Dazzler last year and Vance is believed to have balked.

A trade might solve this difficulty although there is more than a little doubt as to whether Wilbert Robinson would let the speedball king go at any price.

There are a dozen other possible trades, any one of which may be completed while the baseball chiefs are in town.

The visitors were guests at the annual banquet of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America last night.

Tech Hockey Team Plays Four Games

Technology's hockey team faces a busy week with four games scheduled away from home. Today the Beavers clash with Clarkson Tech, at Potsdam, N. Y., and tomorrow cross sticks with St. Lawrence University at Canton, N. Y. They play New Hampshire at Durham, N. H. Wednesday, and Friday travel down to Princeton, N. J., to oppose the Tigers.

Sonnenberg Issues Challenge to World

Flint, Mich., Feb. 3 (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg hurled a defi today to every heavyweight wrestler in the world.

Informed that the National Boxing Association had barred him as champion for failure to enter its elimination tournament, Sonnenberg said:

"I'll enter any open tournament the N. B. A. or any other wrestling body wants to stage, thus giving every man a chance. I stand ready and willing to post any reasonable forfeit and to make a side wager of $1000 to $25,000 that I win. That ought to prove I'm not dodging anyone."

Sonnenberg will meet Stanley Stasiak, the giant Pole, in a match here tonight.

The National Boxing Association recently extended its activities to include sports as of wrestling.

Hub District School Meet Opens With Trials Today

CONTEST FOR TITLE WILL BE CLOSE

DISTRICT schools of the Boston system battle this afternoon at the East Armory in the track trials of their annual meeting.

The field events will be held tomorrow, and the final competition at the East Armory on Saturday. While South Boston is favored to win the meet, East Boston, Roxbury and Charlestown English should be close to Jamaica Plain and Roxbury memorial.

The 220-yard relay team is composed of the best handlers in the district. Goglia of Charlestown English and the speed demons in close to the second line winners. So race, Dan Sullivan of Hyde Park also is fast over the high hurdles.

Satchelell of Roxbury memorial is the class of the eastern section. Dan Sullivan is favored to win the 880-yard run. The boy is likely to be the first to finish with Cannon of East Boston and Curran of Roxbury memorial among others.

Jimmy Kelley, South Boston, has been clocked at 2:06.2 this season, and should qualify with Paul Walsh of Jamaica Plain and Cheltenham of Memorial and Leonhardt of East Boston.

Durst of Hyde Park, Costello of Jamaica Plain and Connolly of South Boston are fast boys entered in the 440. Hoppie of Memorial in the mile is a strength English of South Boston can force the Roxbury lad.

The strength in the intermediate and junior divisions is distributed evenly. Jimmy Daley of South Boston leads the stuff to come through in the junior 176-yard scramble.

The field events of the district and regimental meets will be run off on Tuesday afternoon, the first at English, the latter city a short time ago, when the teams clash at the outdoor track of the Wesley Tenney Company.

Two meets are on the cards of these schools each year, the one scoring the highest total of points in the two meets to be considered the winner. Newton is in this year lead, it won out in the first meet by a 59½ to 17½ count.

Tony Geniasco of Lynn English is a wonderful athlete. He is one of the greatest halfbacks ever to cradle a line in the Bay State. His defensive work on the court team is excellent, and he can also step into track competition and toss the shot better than 45 feet. Tony is out for baseball this spring, although he would have a fine chance to make the nine.

Dick Sproul of Brockton, winner of the 300 in the Northeastern games, probably will enter University of New Hampshire next fall. The boy is a fine trackman, and would make a good addition to any college team.

It would have been possible for Joe Lynch of Jamaica Plain to score more points in the meet than his two tallies against Brighton Saturday, but a sportsmanlike reluctance to run up the score to crush the losers made him pass up his teammates in contest. Honors with defeating the foe for the latter part of the game.

Bud Phelan of Somerville High may be back with the scarlet at the end of the season. He was injured early in the season, but today, but wants to get in there against Lewis in the high school fray the week.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

New forms of interest and pleasure to golf what trading and gaining are to poker. If you are a proficient golfer, get hold of these ideas, in some manner and keep it with you. When you realize that new items of form will not, and cannot be expected to, produce new and better immediate results will be in the way of making a good advance in golf and will be, further, in position to take many of the really fine golfing tips that come along on their full duty for you. The next time some well-wishing friend tells you to do this or something else with your swing, give the idea room in your mind but, put it away there for the time being, then continue with your play just as you have been doing. This may be highly insulting, but it gets you results. The worst mistake you can make in accepting golfing tip is to try to put it into immediate action in your own play, and that's about what every average golfer does. So here's another tip for you: Be different.

SHUTE WINNER OF TEXAS OPEN

Brackenridge Park, San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 3—Densmore Shute, Columbus, O., professional, won the ninth annual Texas open tournament with a total score of 279 strokes.

Three ties were finished in the first round, each with 280 strokes. They were Al Espinosa, Cincinnati; Ben McHattie, Indianapolis, and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del. They divided $1700 in prize money between them.

Shute's victory was his second important triumph of the winter. He defeated Horton Smith, of the Los Angeles open winner, who had placed him well up in the money in the Agua Caliente event.

PRESSURE ON SHUTE

Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., came in for a $200 cut of the purse, as did Joe Turnesa, Jack Burke, Hackensack, N. J., and Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., all of whom finished with 282. Johnny Farrell, Walsh, Al Watrous, Detroit, and Harry Cooper, unattached, split $150 for their 283's. There were a lot of lesser prizes, including $10 each for the first 50 players.

Espinosa and McIntyre fought it out with each other to finish in a tie with Dudley for second place at Fairway, a 270 total when they started the last round, and each turned in 74 one under par.

Bill McIlhenny, Winner of the event for two straight years, could do no better than a fourth with 283. Both Chick Kunkle, Purchase, N. Y.; Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, and Jack Burke, Jr., finished with 284's. They divided $225.

Leon Leishman, the San Antonio pro, had the best score in the special event with a total of 290. Johnny Dawson, of Chicago, finished with 296. Each received $100.

From here the touring professionals will go to Houston for a 72-hole tournament, with prizes totalling $2,000.

AMATEUR BOUTS AT GARDEN

will come away from the Garden with the lion's share of the spoils.

The struggle for the championship in the middleweight division, where Odone Piazza of Italy the European champion, and Albert Leishman, German champion, will concentrate their fire for first honors, and Leishman or Piazza won the European title from Leishman but the German has demonstrated his brilliant form in routine workouts as Piazza, and one of the two seems certain of winning the title.

In every other division they are topheavy by sturdy, capable fighting men. Fifty-seven Italians of Germany and Amateurs De Horatiis of Italy in the 125-pounds class; Leonard Kugler of Germany and Werther Arcelli of Italy in the 147-pounds class; Leishman and Piazza in the 160-pounders, and Kurt Sigge of Germany and Severino Beggiato of Italy in the heavyweight class.

The heavyweight title is, of course, the prize prize and Dean is favored to win Eigge, however is a rugged, aggressive heavyweight who never refuses to swap punches, and it is predicted that the battle between him and Dean will be the highlight of the entire tournament.

Red Sox and Braves Pin Hopes on Young Players

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

VETERANS OF BOTH CLUBS RELEASED

By JOE CASHMAN

OUR local baseball magnates have finally started to practice what they have long been preaching.

Ever since Bob Quinn and Judge Fuchs arrived in these parts they have been lecturing on the necessity and value of young blood in building a winning ball club. Up up to the close of last season, both invariably followed up such lectures by signing up players with one leg or both in the discard journals of baseball.

But this season [illegible] of the demands of Bruce Wagner and Bill McKechnie [illegible] of the Red Sox and Braves respectively or because the pirates have decided to put really the up to the advice they have so often given the preference over experienced but broken-down veterans [illegible] Bob cashs this year [illegible]

THE Sox have released such players as Walter [illegible] Ken Williams, who [illegible] Bruce, have disposed with the services of such old mates as Joe Dugan and Lance Richbourg. Both these players have [illegible] their [illegible] of years and have replaced them with youngsters of tender age with the result that they now rank among the most youthful outfits in the majors.

The average age of the 37 players on the Red Sox roster is only 24 years and 8 months. That is an exceptionally low average age for a big league team and in the case of the Fenway flock it is not due to the presence of a lot of very young rookies who are trying for one position and consequently, is misleading.

THE Sox roster has youth written all over it regardless of how it is looked at.

The oldest player on the team is Milton Gaston, who is but 32, and the only other member who has passed 30 is Billy Rogell. Infielders are shared by Joe Cronin and Robert Kline, each of whom is 27.

The average age of the pitchers is only under 24 years and the average age of the catchers is 23. The outfielders average a bit over 25, while the infielders average only 25½ years old.

Since nobody under 30 can be considered old in baseball and pitchers usually last a few years longer than the average field player, there should be no argument about the Sox being a young ball club.

And the young blood is so evenly divided among the various departments that if a winning combination can, by some miracle, be designed, it will be one which should last for quite some time.

THE Braves aren't quite as young as the Sox, but the average age of the Tribe, excluding the 39-year-old Hank Gowdy, who is down as a catcher but figures to do very little receiving, is only 26½ years, which is the lowest by far it has been in many moons.

The oldest player on Fuchs's payroll, Gowdy again excluded, is Dan Macnaville, who admits 27 years. His age, too, ought not to be taken into consideration, either, for it brings up the average, while it should bring it down, as the midget shortstop has more spirit and pep, and is of a greater value to his team than any man ten years his junior in either league.

In addition to Macnaville, the Tribe has four other players over 30. George Sisler is 36, Gotham Leverett and Harry Siebold are 34, and Lance Richbourg is 31.

The average pitching age is 27. The average catching age is just the same. The infield average is 28. The outfield average, alone, is lower than that of the whole team, being only slightly over 24 years.

THE acquisition of veterans, no matter how capable, is, at the best, only a temporary relief for a second division club.

The Sox and Braves it seems to us, have taken a big step in the right direction by finally deciding to attempt to build up with young material.

Hakoah Wins Over I. R. T. Rangers, 3-1

Asterix, L. I., Feb. 3—The Hakoah All Stars, national champions, went into the second round of the National Cup competition by defeating the I. R. T. Rangers by a score of 3 to 1 here, before 1500, in a first round tie.

The opening was a big surprise, for the Rangers jumped into the lead after 15 minutes' play, when a penalty was awarded against Sternberg for handling. McGivney took the spot kick. The lead was not enjoyed for long, as five minutes later Hakoah scored twice on goals by Mahrer and Gruenwald.

The second half was bitterly fought, but Hakoah was always a pace ahead of their rivals and another tally brought them the verdict.

Country Club Is Victor in Curling

Country Club curlers added the Edwards Cup to the Windsler trophy already in the Clyde Park prize locker by taking three out of four matches yesterday at Brookline, and winning by the score of 46 to 37.

Chadwell will run his first [illegible] for time this afternoon [illegible] with the members of the present mile team, including Harmon Bagnel, Tarr and Geniga. The [illegible] fastest runners this afternoon will automatically win positions on the quartet and the rest will engage in a runoff for the fourth position Wednesday.

As only the four starters will make the New York trip, there will be plenty of competition among the six candidates for the four berths and some speedy time trials should result.

No opponent for the Terriers has been announced for either the Millrose or B. A. A. games, but word is expected in a day or two. B. U. met New Hampshire, Lafayette and Rutgers at the former meet last winter and faced Brown in the B. A. A. classic.

Hubbard Quits as Harvard Crew Coach

Charles Hubbard '24, coach of the 150-pound eights at Harvard, has asked to be relieved of his duties this spring because of pressure of business according to an announcement made today by Henry W. Clark, assistant director of athletics.

Ed Wachter, assistant coach of eights, will take over the coaching of the 150-pound crews and will also coach the dinghies crew.

Cochran-Reiselt Start Match Today

New York, Feb. 3 (INS)—Welker Cochran and Otto Reiselt will start their 600-point three-cushion billiard match today, playing 50-point blocks each afternoon and evening. Cochran holds victories over Willie Hoppe and Augie Kiekhefer and Reiselt was runner-up in the recent world's title tourney.

Schafer Picked to Win Skating Title

New York, Feb. 3 (INS)—Karl Schafer, Austrian star, was installed a favorite today to win the men's singles in the world's figure skating championships at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. Gillis Grafstrom, Swedish ace and titleholder, will not compete.

Stover Team Wins

Tahoe Tavern Cal. Feb. 3 (INS)—Roy Stover, McCall, Idaho musher, today was the winner of the second annual Tahoe Sierra Dog Derby. His time for the 90-mile run was seven hours, 54 minutes and four seconds.

"If Ruth Wants to Quit, It's Up to Him"—Yankees

New York, Feb. 3 (INS)—When informed today that Babe Ruth had threatened to retire unless his salary demands were met Ellsworth (Bob) Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees, declared that such a decision was strictly up to Ruth.

"If the 'Babe' feels that way about it, why there's nothing we can do," Barrow said. "It is his own business and, if he decides to quit, that's up to him. We have heard nothing direct from him and the statement he has issued is all news to us. I was given to understand earlier in the day that he was coming to New York but as I can say to that is that we haven't heard a word from Ruth and don't know anything about his plans.

Reduce the Acid

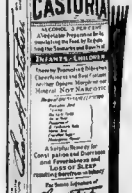
In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomach, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are overstimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach feel sour and upset.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for A-1 sake. It may save a good deal of future sake.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years or more for acidity. 25c and $1. At any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.



If Baby has COLIC

A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

For HOME Convenience—

a second telephone on your present line

Another telephone connecting with your present line can be installed in your kitchen, in the back hall, or in your bedroom at a small service charge for connecting—only two dollars.

You can use either the main telephone or the extension telephone in making, or answering calls.

This added service in the home not only eliminates extra steps, but offers you the advantage of greater privacy in your telephone talks with friends. Retire to the extension telephone and make the calls in quiet and seclusion from there.

The monthly charge for residence extension telephones ranges from seventy-five cents to one dollar, depending upon the class of service you have.

HOW TO GET ONE? Ask your local operator for "Business Office." Then ask "Business Office" to connect you with your Service Representative. You then will be dealing directly with one competent to advise you, and whose duty it is to serve you to your satisfaction.

ON WITH THE DANCE

A True Story of the Younger Set

THE Friday evening dancing party was the week's high spot for the young folks of a certain small country club. A four piece orchestra always supplied the rhythm until older members conceived the idea that mechanical music would serve the youngsters just as well—and cost less.

Accordingly, a music machine was installed. The plan worked once, but the next Friday the little band triumphantly returned to the job.

"What's wrong with your new music box?" a father asked. "Wouldn't you rather dance to Whiteman and Vallee records than to a tin-pan band?"

Junior shook his head and quoted the sadder of the Two Black Crows

"'Even if that was good we wouldn't like it.' Mechanical music is fine at home but it hasn't the right kick for a dance."

Junior and his friends were not concerned about aesthetic values; they simply knew that mechanical music lacked emotional appeal and, therefore, did not suit their purpose.

What is true of dancing must be equally true of the theatre, where living music is needed for glamorous atmosphere

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

RINGWORM of the scalp is not an uncommon thing among children and it is readily transmitted from one to the other. If your child develops such a condition keep him from school and take him to the doctor. If taken care of in time it can be easily cured.

CARE OF HAIR MOST IMPORTANT TO YOUR LOOKS

Something Every Girl Should Know About Care of Herself

By MARIA JERITZA

A CORRESPONDENT writes that her hair is dry and her scalp itches. Lately, tiny white flakes have begun to appear. In other words, she is troubled with dandruff.

Maria Jeritza

In serious cases of scalp trouble I always suggest going to a physician who specializes in care of the scalp and then following his advice. In cases when the case is not severe, the difficulty may be met with common sense measures.

I would suggest to my correspondent that she try the following regime for her dandruff. Each week part your hair over and over, and into each parting drop with a medicine dropper pure olive oil to which have been added a few drops of kerosene. This is not a very pleasant lotion to apply, for the smell of the kerosene is anything but delightful. Kerosene is effective, however, in killing any germ life that might linger in the scalp, while olive oil nourishes the hair roots. Leave this mixture on for half an hour, or if you prefer to let it remain on your scalp overnight, protecting your pillow with a towel. In the morning, wash your hair with any good soft castile soap is excellent for a dry scalp.

Scrub hair and scalp well to remove every trace of the oil, rinse them thoroughly, repeat both soaping and scrub and rinsing, then rinse your hair through several big pans of water, and dry it with a few towels in sunshine if possible. Massage your scalp by rocking it up between your fingers until the entire area is covered.

It would be an excellent idea in addition, to take a tablespoonful of olive oil each day. Buy the best oil on the market for this purpose, and flavor it with pepper and salt to make it more palatable. The additional oil in your system would make your complexion and scalp less dry.

Do not wear your hat too tight and avoid when you can wearing a hat indoors, so that your scalp will not grow feverish and hot, and circulation will be good.

With the aid of systematic grooming and sensible care, you can keep your hair shining with dainty loveliness, provided your general health is all it should be.

Sonny and His Castle

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

NOthinking about changing the small child's room over to fit him now that he has entered grammar or high school, I am going to talk about a boy's room for the simple reason that he fusses and work over little sister's room and is prone to neglect brother. As a matter of fact, the growing boy enjoy their own room and he fixing of less rooms as much as the girls, if we give him a chance.

Constance Cameron

Many a boy stays out, disdains reading or constructing radio, save or making collections of things at home because he has no adequate place in which to work, or of allowed to "mess around" is never sure he will find his mother intact after weekly housecleaning day.

So let us be sure we give our boys a place of their OWN and respect that place.

The boy of 12 or 13 ought to be allowed to have a voice in the color scheme of his room. If he is at first uninterested, make the room as attractive as you can, with an eye to the comfort, not of yourself, but of a young man. A boy of this age needs a good, roomy desk. This demands a good reading light, for study or recreation at the desk.

The cupboards father made for the nursery open welcoming nooks for boxing gloves, baseball, skates, collections of horse-chestnuts and radio parts.

The curtains may be less flimsy now, more sedate, with possibly valances or side draperies in the prevailing color of the furnishings.

The animal and child pictures will undoubtedly be replaced by pennants and cute tropies of life now, and LET THE BOY express himself in this matter, even though the objects offend your sense of the fitness of things.

A comfortable sung chair, with a shaded reading lamp near at left, will tempt to reading many a boy who otherwise hasn't been keen on literature.

And remember that to enjoy the room Son must feel that it is HIS domain, his HOME, and that his possessions are secure therein. Don't resent the locked drawer. Son is at the age when he is easily embarrassed, and the suspected secret drawer probably holds nothing more than a valentine or a dance program, while later it may even shelter a small white glove or a wedding [illegible]

Three-Minute Journeys

By TEMPLE MANNING

UP along the northern curve of the Bay of Biscay lies the most famous of all Spanish watering places—San Sebastian. As gay as America's Newport, as verdant as our Florida and with a beach that can scarcely be excelled anywhere in the world, this resort, the playground of Spanish monarchs for many years, annually draws thousands of visitors.

Nor is its attraction limited to the wonderfully mild climate or the marvelous sea bathing. If our wealthy "dears" cares to take a turn with Lady Luck there are roulette tables and other gambling paraphernalia available. If he be a sportsman whose interest lies in the hair-raising acrobatics of the matadors there is a bull ring—one of the best in Spain—where he may spend many of his afternoons.

San Sebastian is just south of the real Basque country, that stretch of Spain which extends along the Spanish-French frontier where the Pyrenees raise their majestic peaks, and it would never do for me to pass on without telling you a little of the characteristics of these Basques. Spanish by nationality, they are Basque by birth. Perhaps no race of people anywhere in the world is as proud as the Basques. No matter where they may wander and many of them are to be found in the western part of the United States where they are most active in the sheep-raising industry they retain their national pride and their native tongue. And this pride is not without justification in the old days it was always said that a Basque was a gentleman. It made no difference what sort of a home he might come from, the humblest or the richest, he was a gentleman. In fact, there was founded in San Sebastian many years ago a school to which only "the best people" were admitted. But any Basque who presented himself was readily accepted. He needed but to prove that his father and grandfather were Basques.

And this is the atmosphere in which San Sebastian was built and under which it has become the mecca of Spanish vacationists and hundreds of tourists.

The beach at San Sebastian is called La Concha (The Shell), this name arising from the fact that the beach curves around in the form of a shell. At one end of the beach there extends a palm bordered promenade and drive on which face some of the more pretentious villas and apartment houses, whose windows and "miradores" look out over the dancing waters of the Bay of Biscay. These "miradores," by the way, are typically Spanish. They are small, turreted observatories perched atop of the houses, usually on one corner of the roof. From this protected spot the housewife may get a bird's-eye-view of all that is going on on the beach or far out on Biscay's waters.

As on most European beaches, the bathhouses are built right out on the beach. At San Sebastian red and yellow striped houses seem to be favored, and against the white sand offer a pretty scene.

ASKING FOR TROUBLE

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER 21

IT CAME to Lovejoy that one best thing she could do would be to pick a quarrel with Tom.

For if she had a row with him she wouldn't have to tell him where she had spent the evening. She wouldn't have to answer his questions.

She could stop speaking to him that night and she could refuse to speak to him all the next day, and the next one, too, for the matter of that.

She could make life so unpleasant for him that he'd probably be glad to mind his own business when the quarrel patched up.

"I don't know why it's any of your business where I spent the evening," she drawled insolently. "You went out to your evening entertainment and I went out to mine. And where I was is none more of my own business."

She yawned and looked down at her magazine again, pretending to read.

Tom sat down on the edge of his bed and began taking off his shoes. "I was just trying to arrange a battle with you, Lovejoy," he said quietly. "I simply asked you where you were when you drove out to Sarasota and you've been sulking in my car. After all I'm your husband, and I suppose I have the right to ask you where you were."

"Do you?" asked Lovejoy, her red lips curling. "Well that's good."

She laid down her magazine and looked him over as he pulled off one shoe and began to unlace the other.

"A husband never looks so funny and unattractive as when he's pulling off his shoes and socks," she remarked sweetly. "All hunched over like a monkey." She laughed.

Tom stood up, his face flushed. "You never used to think I looked so darned funny," he said shortly.

He looked at her, puzzled. "What's the matter with you anyway? What are you upset about?"

Lovejoy opened her eyes wide. "I'm not upset about anything," she answered coldly. I was just as pleasant as I could be when you came in. I asked you how much you had won at Al's poker party, and you refused to tell me. Instead of that you started to cross-question me, and I have just as much right to my kind of Saturday night as you have to yours. And don't you forget it."

Tom stared at her a moment longer. Then his hand went into his trousers pocket. It came out again with a handful of paper money in it. He threw the bills on the bed before her.

"I won $37," he said. "I was going to surprise you with it. It's yours."

Lovejoy gathered it all into the palm of her small soft hand. She put it under her pillow.

When she looked up again Tom was standing over her. He was smiling.

I was afraid you might throw it at me," he said her. "Let's not have any more of this arguing. Come here and kiss me good night and tell me where you were. I was worried after I found out you'd gone away in the car. The tires are old and they skid when it rains."

He put out his arms and took her by her shoulders.

But Lovejoy drew back. "Oh, don't kiss me," she cried out sharply. "You smell of alcohol. You've been drinking! Tom, I don't like you when you're squiffy. Please get away from me!"

She shuddered.

After Tom had gone to bed and the room was in darkness, she lay awake for a long time thinking of Steve Oglesby and the way she had let him kiss her and tell her that he loved her.

"That double-crosser I am!" she scolded herself. Loving Tom the way I do—and then sneaking away from him to see Steve Oglesby!

Well, she would never do it again, she promised herself. She would stay at home and behave herself. She was no Alice Alderson. She would look sideways at Steve Oglesby, or any other man, again!

But when a person has done a thing once it is easy to do it again.

On Wednesday night at 6 o'clock Tom telephoned to say that he was going to stay downtown to have dinner with Al Alderson and another man.

Alice is still out of town and Al's lonely," he said.

"Well, what about me? I'm lonely, too." Lovejoy answered. "And everything's ready for dinner, Tom."

The house was filled with the pleasant appetizing odor of stuffed veal chops and pumpkin pie.

Through the open door of the dining room Lovejoy could see the table all set for the meal. Two candles in the center and blue glass and the plated silverware shining like the moon. There was a little yellow bowl filled with nasturtiums in the middle of the table.

"I'm sorry, Lovejoy," Tom said, but I've promised Al I'm going to meet him in five minutes. I'll be home early."

And I won't be here when you come!" Lovejoy told him in no uncertain terms.

But all she said was "All right." She hung up the receiver with a bang.

She gave the number of Steve Oglesby's office a moment later. But there was no answer. Every one had left for the day, evidently.

At half past 8 she called him at his house.

Lucy Writes of the Male in Business

By LUCY LOWELL

THE problem of the woman in business comes to this column again. Miss Ida M. Oaktree of this city writes to inform me that far from being in a fair way to settlement, the problem looms large as ever, if not larger, now that women really are assuming positions of responsibility and high salary in competition with men who view the whole proceeding with disfavor.

As if I didn't know it! Not a day passes but I hear from women everywhere who are struggling against the same unfairness, favoritism, belittlement and male rudeness generally that Miss Oaktree writes about.

Women are in business to stay; they are making good and proving themselves not only as woman but as workers. In time the old battle of the sexes—old as Adam and Eve—will cease. But it will be a long time—may as well face that.

Miss Oaktree's trouble is with a male department head, her superior whom I judge from her description to be an exact duplicate of others I hear about all the time.

When things go right he takes and receives—all the credit with those in authority; when things go wrong he passes the blame along to Miss Oaktree, who does about three-fifths of the work in the department. And because of the unwritten law prevailing in most organizations relative to the heinousness of going over the superior's head, Miss Oaktree has no recourse but to grin and bear it.

Of course she can go over the buck-passer's head, she can walk into the front office and lay the facts before the boss. If he is the right sort he will listen to her and investigate the facts and right a wrong condition.

There may be some safe and sane and square way of handling situations of this sort. I do not know what it is but I shall be very glad to print suggestions and experiences of my readers if they will send them along.

OUTLOOK FOR RUBBER STILL CONFUSED

By FRANK H. MELTON
Financial Editor

The outlook for rubber is still confused with Prices and British growers continuing to discuss curtailment of output. Results so far are exceptional as to the possibility of restricting the world's production, which would have important general moral as well as economic effects. The Latex Association of America, Inc., has been formed to promote the use of rubber in various industries. Davis of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, has been active in the movement. Some of the members have gone to Singapore. Some of the results are good, too. It is going to be a long time before the trade is ready to accept the plan.

Morgan Shyest Man in America Says Partner

Stocks Are Doing Better; Miniger's Big Record; G. E. Orders Up

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

THE week has brought further moderate improvement in the stock market and in industry and employment. Stocks have advanced somewhat every day this week, with but one exception. Trading still is rather listless. But it has been found easier to send good stocks up than to send them down. Bears haven't found it easy to put a crimp in the market.

The general improvement in stocks is gratifying because, see what you will, the influence exercised throughout the investment world cannot be ignored.

The bond market is also rather buoyant. Many investors reason that investment stocks are today relatively cheaper than investment bonds. Twenty years ago there was room for the latter to increase in price, whereas there is no telling how far skilfully selected shares may by and by rise above their current low levels.

C. O. Miniger, president of the Electric Auto-Lite Co., has built up that enterprise so efficiently that even the biggest motor manufacturers have to match his costs—not even Henry Ford, Mr. Miniger estimates that auto and truck production this year will be much greater than now generally imagined. His prediction is for bulk, 3,000,000 units. And his company figures on equipping this year upwards of 2,500,000. He tells me that the company's list of stockholders has practically doubled in the last year. The shares lately have just had a 13-point rise.

Mr. Miniger, it is understood, now has an important interest in Willys-Overland.

President R. H. Ballard of Southern California Edison writes me: "We are all set for a prosperous year again out here, and while the rain must have come late in starting, we are now normal."

One of J. P. Morgan's partners tells me that Mr. Morgan is the shyest man in America. Newspaper reporters and photographers have often resented what they regarded as his unobliging, secretive, boorishness and lack of consideration. "Mr. Morgan's attitude toward reporters and photographers is caused by nothing but his shyness," declares this partner. "He particularly hates to dodge clicking cameras, he doesn't like to see his picture constantly in the newspapers."

The House of Morgan in recent years has had a more or less open door policy toward financial newspapermen. There was a time when the present head of the house didn't have a paper appreciation of the power of public opinion or of the advisability of giving information. Slowly, however, Mr. Morgan modified that attitude. Now there is no office in America more frequented by newspapermen than J. P. Morgan's; only J. P. usually delegates to Thomas W. Lamont the ordeal of being catechised by the press. Having early been a reporter himself, Lamont understands "the boys."

E. G. Biechler, president of Frigidaire, after a business tour over the continent, has returned confident that 1930 will prove another good year. His own company has planned a 15 per cent increase.

Talking of electric refrigeration I hear that a youngish man who has made many millions in the radio field, is thinking of withdrawing from it with the idea of branching out a refrigerating machine costing only $100.

It will be a great blessing to millions of families if manufacturers of refrigeration can bring down their prices very substantially. There is no family in the land that would not like to have this unique convenience. But the price has been the barrier thus far to those on the lower rungs of the financial scale. At that, domestic refrigeration has proved one of the most fastest growing of our infant industries.

One leader writes: "You ask why there has been a decrease in railroad stockholders when there have been gains in stockholders in industrial and public utility corporations. Would you yourself keep your money in railroad shares, even the best of them, as a permanent investment, seeing that they yield only nine-tenths of all first-class mail will be moved by airplane and that the great competition will take nine-tenths of all passengers travelling a hundred miles or more? The railroads will transport only the coarsest and heaviest of commodities. That's coming. We are not going back-wards in the transportation of mail and passengers."

That is an exaggerated idea of what lies ahead. Won't there be room for all forms of transportation?

This is encouraging: General Electric's orders during the last three months of the year increased 23 per cent over 1928.

America is not going to the dogs.

CURB MARKET PRICES MIXED AND NARROW

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 3.—AP)—Curb market prices fluctuated narrowly and irregularly today. Considerable attention was paid to the oil shares in sympathy with a similar trading trend on the "Big Board."

Utilities lost some of the buoyancy they displayed late last week. Electric Bond & Share selling off about a point and a half from the high level established Saturday.

American Gas & Electric met 2 points and American Super Power retained practically unchanged gain, and Standard Power & Light moved up 1 to 2 points.

Arkansas Natural Gas, a subsidiary of Cities Service, rose more than 2½ points, while Cities Service added a point. Standard Oil of Indiana ranged on the directors decision to increase the capital stock by $50,000,000. Gulf ranged on.

Industrials were rather erratic. U. S. Gypsum snapped up five points and Aluminum Company of America improved slightly more than a point, but Tubize Artificial Silk fell 3. Brazilian Traction common, when issued gained a fraction, as did Crocker Wheeler.

Investment and financial holding company issues remained firm. Shenandoah common, Lehman, Goldman Sachs and Continental found higher ground, the last named advancing a point to 18¾, where it met some selling.

"MOP" STOCK OPPOSITION

Washington, Feb. 3 (INS)—The proposal of the Missouri Pacific Railroad to issue 2?8,652,900 of its common stock is opposed by William F. O'Connor and C. H. Mussman, stockholders.

Through Edward C. Bailey, they told the interstate commerce commission that the issuance of the new stock would be unlawful under the laws of Missouri, because it has not been approved by the stockholders. Furthermore, they alleged, as this stock issue is to be used for the purpose of paying accumulated dividends on the preferred stock, it is for a purpose not authorized by Missouri law.

"The offer of the proposed additional common stock to the road's preferred stockholders at par, plus accrued dividends, and their exercise of rights at $100 per share, payable in cash, when such common stock at the time of issue is selling for a number of months past been, selling at prices substantially below such par, makes such offer unfair and, therefore, would not be in compliance with the rule of law giving preferred stockholders a preemptive right to subscribe to additional stock on reasonable terms," Bailey's report said.

The claim was made that $21,436,224 of the $23,676,061 expenditures for investments in securities of Affiliated companies, $2,493,156 expenditures for advances to affiliated companies, for which the Missouri Pacific is seeking in connection with the proposed issue to reimburse its treasury, should not be capitalized by the issuance of common stock. The value of the property depends on account of the purchase price or rental of, and of additions and betterments to the property on which the applicant has no title."

Refusing to the holders of Missouri Pacific 5½ per cent preferable gold bonds, the intervenors said that the proposed issuance of additional stock dividend of 3 per cent, payable June 18, and regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable March 31 to stock of record March 14. Two-year scrip will be issued for fractional shares. A similar stock dividend of 6 per cent was declared, payable in four quarterly installments of 1½ per cent each.

Larger Earnings for Chain Stores

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—Metropolitan Chain Stores, Inc., reports 1929 net profit of $930,240, equal to $4.56 a common share, against $768,695, or $4.15 a share in 1928.

FOREIGN BOND BUYING IS FEATURE

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—Buying of prominent European government loans was a feature of bond trading today. French government 7½s made a new high at 121, up 1 over yesterday's close, and just below 113, were one of the best issues in the list. Italy 7s, Denmark 6s and Belgium 7s were well up. Japanese issues were also in demand, the 6½s of 1924 gaining a point.

Interest in foreign bonds appeared to center largely on issues of the governments in Europe, rather than on those of municipalities or corporations. Offerings of the latter were small.

Investment rating and industrials were unchanged from the previous day. Rails were irregular, further declines occurring in Western Pacific 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s and Texas & Pacific 5s. Utilities were mixed, Public Service of New Jersey 6s and Consolidated Gas of New York 6s each gaining more than a point.

Foreign dollar bonds were irregular. Rio Grande do Sul 8s of 1946 were up 1½ points, while Argentine 6s of 1959 and Argentine 6s of 1960 were off 1 point each. Mixed trading was a feature of Japanese issues. Public Service of New Jersey 6s, 1967, were conspicuous among convertibles.

$2,000,000 IN RADIO MERGER

Indianapolis, Feb. 3 (INS)—Will Sears, 38, former vice-president of the Showers Brothers Furniture Company at Bloomington, Ind., today was appointed president of the $2,000,000 radio merger there. It will employ 1200 men and produce 1000 sets daily.

The new company was formed with the merging of the Radio Air Service Corporation and the Thomas Radio Company, Inc. Sears, it was announced, has retained for the new concern the services of the Thomas engineering staff, which has remained with the merged company.

Sears will be in charge of sales and advertising, further announcements

Piano Makers Show Big Loss in Year

Cincinnati (AP)—Baldwin Co. makes report for year ended Dec. 31, showing net loss of $1,165,760, increased depreciation reserves and net profit of $422,477 in 1928, total $19,361,606 against $17,772,129 in 1928. President Wallace and the company has shown increase in operating profit, made substantial reduction in funded debt.

Earnings Larger on Ill. Telephone

Chicago (AP)—Illinois Bell Telephone reports net earnings $2,572,000, an increase of 2.2 per cent over 1928. Net profits in 1929 were $13,075,212, which is equal on the capital stock outstanding compared with $11,27 in 1928.

Dillon Read Loan Is Hailed as Sign of German Revival

Berlin, Feb. 3—Despite uncertain tendencies in the general markets, nervousness due to political troubles and increasing unemployment in Berlin, the Bourse has showed an upward trend for a week. The Dillon Read loan is hailed as a harbinger of economic revival. A flood of American dollars is hoped for to make the reparations loan a success. A further reduction of the rediscount rate by the Reichsbank is expected this week.

BUSINESS IS COMING BACK

New York, Feb. 3 (Financial Chronicle)—Signs of the blossom of several kind to be seen for the first time in months, business throughout the country is warming from the coldness and somewhat earlier in point than was expected says The Financial Week in its report covering the week ending February 1.

Stock quotations expanded with surprising rapidity under the stimulus which the automobile makers think the outlook for good and are increasing schedules preparing to try it out between now and the active fore part of the year. Steel employment has increased generally since the loss of the year, which is very gratifying but remarkable.

Weakness in commodity prices with the collapse of price pegging plans, however, is retarding buying activity, and freight traffic and general trade are about as active as they were during the painful days of 1928 when Model A was being born.

The market is clearly gaining ground against the steady liquidation of bank security loans and investments and the banks are preparing more elastic power with which to handle increasing spring business credit needs. But for all recent liquidation, money is still tight and the need for lower rediscount rates continues.

Signs of business recovery can be fully realized or long sustained without more Reserve Bank ease than has so far been forthcoming. Steady reduction of member bank indebtedness and falling bank rates abroad bring the point

NEW FINANCING INCREASED

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—New stock, bond and note financing last month aggregated $160,115,000, the largest amount since early in 1921. The grand total for January consisted of new bond and note issues, new stock offerings totaling but $18,168,655.

Production of the Baldwin Locomotive Works last month were four times the value of deliveries of the preceding month, the year totaling $2,000,000 against $500,000 a year ago.

The Fisher Motor Co. is reported to have increased production from 3500 to 6200 cars and trucks daily, with the proposition of stable calling for full time employment of five days a week for 45,000 workmen.

Production of crude oil in California for the week ending Feb. 1 averaged 574,000 barrels daily, an increase of 5600 barrels over the previous week.

Sales of Nelsner Bros. stores during January totaled $890,151, compared with $586,500 in January, 1929, an increase of 40.04 per cent.

Credit Men Look for Healthy Year

New York, Feb. 3—The current year 1930 ought to be a year of healthy normality, says February bulletin of National Association of Credit Men. Larger stocks, strong position of the bank, and the availability of money at reasonable rates will aid both production and distribution, especially building. The large amount of construction projected is a potential stimulus to many allied lines. One factor which may show an improvement is the smaller inventories of staple commodities than at beginning of 1929. This may keep prices down for a while.

Kindness Pays—'1000 Pct.' in 40 Years

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 3 (INS)—A. V. King of this city has been paid 1000 per cent on an investment made 40 years ago and although he did not get that much interest in actual money he feels that what he did get revealed the heart of the giver.

In 1890 King was in Covington, Ia., and saw an 11-year-old boy sawing at a wood pile, with tears streaming down his face. Kindly inquired to inquire the cause of the boy's grief and was informed that there was to be a show in the town that night and that he had saved his "boss" for 15 cents so he might attend. The boss" refused, the boy said, and gave him a stick and told him to get back to work.

King gave the boy 20 cents.

The boy grew up and became a soldier and died in the Philippines of leprosy.

He left a small estate and among the bequests was one of King. It amounted to $2.67. A check on the money arrived from the federal government today.

"I don't know how much the interest on 20 cents for 40 years is," King said, "but to me it is 1000 per cent. The check never will be cashed."

SOLON JOINS IN POLICE RAID

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Representative Schafer is preparing for his next onslaught on prohibition by accompanying Washington police on liquor raids and interviewing the prisoners taken on these forays.

The Wisconsin wet has been an onlooker at several raids in the last three months and, as he put it himself, has been spending "as many Saturday nights as possible" at the precinct police stations.

"Surely I've been doing considerable gum-shoeing," he said. "I want to see how prohibition works at first hand and one of the best ways to do it is to accompany the police when they go out for liquor violators. I've been in houses with them. I've seen them arrest men and women with liquor, and I've frequented these precinct stations to talk with these people after they've been behind the bars."

Rear Admr. Howard, Retired, Dies in R. I.

Newport, R. I., Feb. 3 (AP)—Rear Admiral William L. Howard, retired, died this morning at his home here. He was born in Pittsfield, Ill., in 1860, and was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1882.

His wife and daughter died within the past few years. Several grandchildren survive.

TEXAN GIVES UP CONGRESS SEAT

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—Representative Augustus McCloskey today conceded the election in 1928 of Henry M. Wurzbach as Representative from the 14th Congressional District of Texas in a letter to the elections committee which is considering the long controverted contest.

Disclaiming any knowledge "of any wrongdoing or any tampering with any returns of the election," the Democrat, who has held the seat by virtue of a certificate from the state canvassing board, said that Wurzbach should be declared elected.

DOUBLE TAILSPIN

After a good night's sleep, shaking off a little tired feeling, Rotzel decided to get the show started with a fairly decent sized crowd on deck. That was the signal for a series of maneuvers, during which he rolled the ship both to the right and left, looped it immediately after the loops, and then performed two tail spins at the same time.

That last statement might look like so much banana oil to you, but we will explain it. Kicking the ship into a right hand spin at about 2000 feet, Shirley spun down to about 1500 feet, then he bongo-it out, and immediately slapped it into a left hand spin, still coming down, and without leveling off for an instant.

A pretty piece of flying, and the crowd, while not knowing exactly what it was all about, sensed that something unusual was in the wind, from the comments made by the boys.

Then this chap came across the airport at about 15 feet, with the right wing low, and about half-throttle, slowing the ship so that the ship could be flown in an unnatural position at slow speed without losing altitude, or slipping into the ground.

TRIO LEAVES HUB

Three of the Curtiss-Wright pilots took off soon on various errands, one for a vacation; another for a visit home o Rochester, and the third ordered to another Curtiss-Wright base.

The trip is composed of Albert Burnham, once known as the youngest transport pilot in New England, who is taking a trip to the West Coast by the airway mail system, to call upon the "sweetest girl in the world."

Next there is J. Paul Herman, the "diving dervish," who thinks no more of diving a Cessna at 180 miles an hour than he does of handing a cup o' coffee. J. Paul is taking his wife and baby for a visit to the home folks in Rochester.

While he is there he will pop down to Sunbury, Penn., to wind up his plans for his proposed assault on the world's refueling endurance record, which attempt will be started in May.

The next is none other than "Jo-Jo" Bartlett, long a prominent pilot in these parts. "Jo-Jo" has been transferred from the Worcester base, which is being abandoned March 1, to Raleigh, North Carolina. He expects to be stationed down there for the next couple of months, or until such time as the spring rush of business starts here, and his services are needed.

To make up for this seeming exodus, two of the boys have returned from a three weeks' stay in Bermuda. Chief pilot of Curtiss-Wright, Ralph Wickford, is one, and the other is Bill Harris, a C-W's sales staff. Both boys are as brown as berries, and envious eyes follow them wherever they go. Such a tan!

Wickford relates experiences on a tandem bicycle, with Bill bringing up the rear.

"First time we tried it," quoth Wick, "we went into a flat spin, but after a couple of hours dual we got the hang of it."

And the tough part of the whole Island was the fact that there wasn't any place to get a drink, or heard! Not even an old OX-5 sputtering to keep the boys reminded of home.

Pittsburgh has been awarded a Class "C" sanction by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce for an aircraft show to be held March 6 to 15, and arrangements for the committee is none other than Halsey R. Bagley, another of the original barnstorming boys from around a part of the country.

We haven't heard from Halsey for a couple of years, and we are glad to find that he is still alive and kicking. Many of the old-timers will also be glad to know his whereabouts.

Average Age of 34 Bars Jobs to Women

Washington, Feb. 3—Despite the fact that laws and regulations set 45.5 years as the average age when women become "too old" for employment, actual practice and custom set the average age at 34.6 years. This according to a report by the women bureau of the Labor Department.

INDIANA TO HUB FLIGHT COSTS PILOT $18

BY GEORGE HAMBLIN

Flying about 900 miles from Richmond, Indiana, to Boston for his engine hung up by C. Shirley Reitzel, sales representative of the Davis Aircraft Company, when he landed at the local airport to show the ship off and meet Walter Hoyes, head of the Land Associates, New England distributors of the Davis high-wing monoplanes.

Reitzel came barging over the field, and executed a thrilling exhibition of slow flying as well as an exhibition of smooth stunting.

The trip from the factory in Richmond was not made in a continuous flight, the ship stopped everywhere, demonstrating the newest Davis powered with a 145 Hizzle 65 horsepower engine, and consequently didn't try for any time in speed at all.

However, despite stops in every body's back yard, along with every airport of any consequence, Shirley kept his schedule record of the gasoline and oil used, and when he figured it all out, he discovered that the trip was under exclusive of hotel expenses, at the aforementioned low figure of eighteen bucks.

Not a bad record for that distance for that much money, taking in all machine expenses.

The clothesline didn't pop out of turn once, and I shot a bit of grease into it every now and then," Reitzel reported. "Outside of actual fuel cost there wasn't a penny spent for so much as a spare cap for one of the motor tubes."

U. S. Drops Stamp Theft Case in R. I.

Providence, Feb. 3 (AP)—Elwood Banfield and Rudolph E. Kraft, New York stamp brokers, whose convictions for conspiring to receive stamps stolen from the Pawtucket postoffice in a $250,000 robbery were reversed in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Boston, will not be prosecuted further, U. S. Dist. Atty. Ross announced today. In federal court the men were each sentenced to a two-year prison term and fined $5000.

Ross said Atty-Gen. Mitchell had instructed him not to carry the case in the Supreme Court. The third man in the conspiracy, "Pawtucket Johnny" Conley, is serving a two-year term at Atlanta.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Chairman Fitzgerald

His Leadership of the Tercentenary Committee Means That Boston's Celebration Will Be Smart But Dignified

CALLING former Mayor Fitzgerald to the chairmanship of Boston's Tercentenary Committee, the present mayor appears to have accomplished a double.

He has, for one thing, given great pleasure to those old friends of Mr. Fitzgerald who trooped after him last November to a place under the Curley standard.

Much MORE important, to the people of city and State, is the fact that Mr. Fitzgerald's leadership, supported as it will be by a friendly and generous mayor, is a guarantee that Boston's part in the celebration of this 300th anniversary of the Bay Colony will be everything it should be, fitting, appropriate, in good taste and with the proper touch of magnificence.

The man who so many years ago prophesied this Bigger, Better and Busier Boston is a born showman, who deeply and sincerely loves his native New England.

OUR part in the Tercentenary, ladies and gentlemen, will be noble.

First of 300,000 Women

Our Guest of Honor

MARY VIRGINIA MACRAE, who has come all the way from Council Bluffs to spend a day or two, merits a welcome on her own account as well as for what she represents.

Mrs. Macrae is the wife of one of Iowa's most eminent surgeons, who served in the War with Spain and, more than twenty years later, returned from the World War with the Distinguished Service Medal, the Croix de Guerre and five citations.

Their son was a captain at Camp Kearney; a daughter served in the Motor Corps.

As President of the American Legion Auxiliary, with a membership of 300,000 and departments in every State in the Union, Mrs. Macrae visits Boston in connection with plans for the National Convention, to be held here early in October.

The auxiliary is first and to the Legion in the care of disabled service men in the hospitals, the home nursing of the sick, the establishment and maintenance of billets for war orphans, and the training of these children for useful citizenship.

In other words, Mrs. Macrae's is the sort of organization which appeals most strongly to this wholly American community.

She should depart from us, when she must, impressed with the truth that she leaves a friendly town of 2,000,000 people, every one of them enthusiastically committed to the task of making this year's Legion and Auxiliary conventions set a new mark, in patriotism as well as in entertainment.

A Poor Provider

Meets With Mr. Justice Common-Sense

A STRANGE tale of miserliness comes to us all the way from the rich County of Aroostook, where the potato grows.

In the town of Caribou dwells a certain prosperous farmer: the season just past was a "big" one in Potato Land—who is pictured as loving his bank account with his whole heart, with his whole mind and with his whole soul.

Neighbors having complained, investigation is said to have revealed that the rich one was neglecting his family, consisting of a paralytic wife and three undernourished children.

The man was brought into court and judgment postponed while Judge Joseph E. Hall consulted with dietitians.

The honorable court has just made known its decision, which is quite unlike anything we have heard from the bench in years. It is that from this time henceforth the ungenerous husband must every week provide his family with:

Two dozen oranges, three pounds of turnips or one cabbage, one peck of potatoes, two dozen apples, two pounds of butter, three pounds of soup bone (or fish), bread as needed IN PLENTY, two dozen eggs, five pounds of carrots, five pounds of onions, two pounds of lamb or liver, sufficient flour, sugar, salt and spices; two pounds of prunes, 14 quarts of whole milk, four pounds of pot roast (beef), four cans of tomatoes.

"And sir," said the court, "you will pay your lady $4 in cash, each and every week."

A sentence of 11 months in jail accompanied this decree, to be enforced if husband and father fails to comply.

The reporters speak of Judge Hall as "venerable," but as to that we should have to know the ages of the reporters. Middle-aged or elderly, however, this Caribou magistrate seems to us another Daniel. He makes the punishment fit the crime, exactly.

But just the same it grieves us to know that there's a family man in Aroostook as tight as the back to a tree.

New Era of Exploration

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

A NEW era in scientific exploration is heralded by the discoveries of the present Byrd expedition. But, as is well known, the story of the exploration of the vast continent, known as Antarctica, began 20 years ago.

Capt. Robert Falcon Scott, with two companions, made two journeys of some hundreds of miles, visited the western plateau of South Victoria Land, which he called "the most desolate region in the world," and from the picture of Antarctica which he had explored, inferred that it was composed of mountain ranges and high plateaus.

Some years later, Lieut. E. H. Shackleton, who had accompanied Scott in 1902, made a noteworthy tour of exploration. He was accompanied by two companions; and the three made a killing journey of 1700 miles on foot, starting on Nov. 1, 1908, and returning on March 4, 1909.

THE South Pole itself, which is not at all the same location as the Magnetic Pole, yet remained to be reached. There now occurred a dramatic contest for its discovery, reminding one, in a measure, of the contest between Peary and Cook for the discovery of the North Pole.

But this was a bona fide contest, whereas it is now generally believed that Cook was not a true competitor with the successful Peary.

This dramatic contest, staged in the heart of Antarctica, took place between Scott, the Englishman, and Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian. Scott and his companions using ponies for hauling supplies, set off from their base at McCurdo Sound and reached the South Pole on January 18, 1912—only to find there the tent and records of the Norwegian party, showing that they had been anticipated by thirty-five days.

THIS bitter disappointment was only the prelude to tragedy, for Scott and all his companions perished on the return journey. When Scott, Bowers and Wilson attempted to thirst and starvation, they were within eleven miles of a food depot.

The journey of Amundsen was prepared with the utmost scientific care and carried out with magnificent precision.

Amundsen used dogs instead of ponies, and was aided by a party skilled in traveling over ice. The Norwegian party discovered the South Pole and hoisted there the Norwegian flag on December 14, 1911.

Before leaving Norway, Amundsen predicted that his polar journey would end January 25, 1912. He fulfilled his prediction to the exact day.

Where Our Beauty Doctors Began

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

WHEN NEW YORK IS A NOISELESS CITY we predict that your lonely ear drums will pop out like telescopes looking for the horizon.

Noise is the diploma of our educations. New York builders are posting signs apologizing for the necessary noise. But they are hammering just the same.

There is no racket we enjoy better than a freshly-soled flat wheel thumping a spring song without the springs. The next time you get your brakes relined we hope you use sandpaper.

The music of thirty million automobile horns is the largest orchestra ever directed in history. Europe claims that America is pitched an octave too high, but Europe forgets that noise is progress.

We went nuts in the quietest town in the world. That's Venice, a town that has never had a street-paving scandal.

When a gondolier approaches a Venetian street corner he bangs his paddle on the water. Two slaps mean a left turn. Three slaps indicate full speed ahead. Any extra slaps mean mosquitoes.

We lay awake listening to the slapping until dawn. Then a fire engine came in with a hook and ladder crew slapping the water with soup spoons.

There is no noise we enjoy better than a riveting machine humming the serenity of the neighborhood. If New York ever tears down its elevated railroads nobody in the city will sleep.

The rasping of frozen elevated wheels on dangerous curves is music to urbanites. It's much better than a frog pond that has been wired for sound.

If noise didn't mean something then a Vermont checker champion would be getting more money than Paul Whiteman. Look at Rudy Vallee. He gives it to you through a megaphone instead of growing a beard and muttering in it.

The more tacked you make the better off you are. People may beat a path looking for mousetraps but there are more visitors intending to thirst and starvation, they were within eleven miles of a food depot.

Einstein didn't have any idea of how good his theory was until New York greeted him with a brass band of 80 pieces and a couple of drums in case of a tie.

You've got to get notice in this world even if it's in the shape of complaint blanks. The only way you can find out that you've got neighbors in New York is to play your radio after midnight.

So keep your city noisy and tourists will realize that it's important.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

ITS method of feeding is as elementary as its locomotion; it consumes microscopic plants, other creatures like itself, and lacking a definite mouth, it takes them in indiscriminately at any point on its surface; it simply flows over them and round them, and thus embracing them in three dimensions, gets them into its own body.

And when it has exhausted their nutritive possibilities it flows away from them, abandoning them from any point at the surface of its body.

The individual is prowling about among a number of crescent-shaped microscopic plants; it has recently consumed three of them, and is dragging them along in its hinder part and slowly digesting them.

There are numerous species of amoebae, living for the most part in fresh or sea-water or in damp soil.

Some of them are parasitic, living in our bowels (which seem to have an irresistible attraction for microscopic organisms, for they are populated by a great variety of different kinds), and although most of the parasitic amoebae are harmless, there is one species that causes a serious form of dysentry.

The amoeba represented belongs to a kind found in ponds; it is called a "limax amoeba," because it crawls smoothly and steadily forward in one direction like a slug (limax is Latin for slug.)

Another common kind is the "proteus amoeba," which has an even less definite shape; its bodyjelly can flow out into lobes at any point over the surface, and by throwing out a lobe and then flowing towards into it, so to speak, the creature moves from place to place.

In this liquidly, gelatinous body two definite structures are suspended. The first is an obvious, transparent sphere, situated near the hinder end of the body—a hollow sphere, filled with a watery fluid.

If it is carefully watched, this sphere can be seen to grow slowly larger and larger until it ultimately bursts like a bubble, squirting its contents through the clear skin into the outer world.

Then, in a little while, a tiny drop reappears, grows again, bursts again—and so on, with a rhythm, of several minutes from burst to burst. This structure is called the contractile vacuole.

There is an apparent parallel between its behavior and the slow accumulation and roughly periodic expulsion of fluid that occur in the human bladder, and for a long time the contractile vacuole was regarded as a special excretory organ for getting rid of the waste-products of the creature's activity.

But, as a matter of fact, it is an organ for getting rid of water. The inside of the amoeba, like our own insides, contains salt and other dissolved substances, and these substances by a simple physical process, are constantly sucking water in through the surface of the amoeba from the outside.

In technical language the dissolved salts set up an osmotic pressure inward. The water has to be excitingly baled out again by the contractile vacuole, because otherwise the animal would swell up and liquefy.

This, by the way, is only true of fresh water amoebae; in the amoebae which live in the sea, since the amount of dissolved salts is the same without and within, there is an osmotic balance and no inward water-leakage and therefore no contractile vacuole.

Most of the chemical interchanges between amoeba and its environment—the absorption of oxygen, the discharge of carbon dioxide and other matters—occur indiscriminately over the whole surface and need no special organ.

The second structure is one we have already remarked in the tissue-cells of the higher types—the nucleus.

It completes a very striking resemblance that may already have become apparent to the reader between the anatomy and general behavior of amoeba and that of a white blood corpulse, or of an isolated cell creeping in a tissue-culture.

Both are of a size and both are masses of living protoplasm without enduring form. It is possible, because of this great similarity of organization, to look upon an amoeba as a single cell which is living by itself instead of being part of a body-community, and for this reason amoeba is generally called a single-cell or "unicellular" organism.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

BEFORE marriage, a girl closes her eyes when a man kisses her. After marriage, she has to close them when he forgets to kiss her.

Considering all the kisses that are being freely passed around in the world today, you'd fancy that a girl could afford to be fastidious and take her choice, instead of feeling that she has to accept any old brand that is offered her.

The happiest day of a modern father's life is that on which he can hand his daughter over to a strong, pure, sweet young man who will break her of her wild ways and make a WOMAN of her!

Forty-five is the age of awakening, at which a man suddenly discovers that he wants to be popular with the younger women, he will have to stop playing the role of Santa Claus.

When a man can't remember your address by heart, and calls you by one of the old stock petnames, you are merely a telephone number in his consciousness, dear heart.

Alas, a man's love is no longer measured by his attentions. Not flowers, his vows of tenderness, but just by the amount of gasoline he will waste on you and the wear and tear on your lipstick.

No man can ever realize how ill he is until he sees a clinical thermometer in the nurse's hands; nor how much in love he is until he sees the love-light in a rival's eyes.

Clinging Vine: A woman who permits a man to think that he is having his own way, while she gently holds his nose to the grindstone.

Death has been called "The Great Adventure"—but the GREATEST adventure is marriage, when we swing off into a new life, under the ether of romance, with a practically unknown companion.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THE birds wing southwards towards the sun
And fragrant isles
Where Summer's golden nets are spun
While each day smiles.

Swift southward winging, far behind
They leave the snow,
To seek the sun-sweet lands and find
Where no storms blow.

So wing my thoughts. They turn
As birds in flight:
They seek your smile, your eyes of blue,
Your glances bright.

So wing my thoughts; they seek your hands,
Your voice, your mouth,
For in my heart's uncharted lands
You are the south!

Unfair Federal Taxes

How Our Government Can Relieve Taxpayers Without Injury to Government Finances

THE most oppressive and unfair of federal taxes is the tax on earned income.

The earning period of working men and women is limited. The fruits of their brief labors should not be taken from them if the revenue needs of the federal government can be met in any other way.

They can be so met. Congress can immediately abolish the tax on earned income, if it desires. A substitute source of revenue is at hand, simple and satisfactory.

How much does the government get from the tax on earned incomes of citizens?

The last figures are for 1927. In that year this particular tax yielded a total of $100,000,000. It will not yield over $125,000,000 in 1930.

Where can the government get the money to replace this revenue if the tax on earned incomes is abolished entirely?

The revenue can be supplied by putting into the public treasury the interest payments that foreign governments make on their war debts to our government. This amounts to $160,000,000 a year, which is more than the yield of the earned income tax.

Foreign governments pay us about $200,000,000 a year, of which $160,000,000 is interest on their debt and $40,000,000 is repayment of its principal.

The law requires that the $40,000,000 of principal payments shall be applied to debt reduction, buying of Liberty Bonds and retiring them.

There is no such requirement as to the use of the $160,000,000 of interest payments. This sum each year could have been put into the treasury, but Secretary Mellon has chosen to use it for debt retirement.

Now the secretary says that the debt has been retired too fast. There is no reason for using this $160,000,000 for retirement purposes, since the taxpayers are ALREADY supplying $400,000,000 a year for a sinking fund to cancel Liberty Bonds.

The only possible complication is that most of the foreign government payments are made not in money but in the form of Liberty Bonds which they buy in the open market below par and turn in at par. Secretary Mellon can solve this problem.

Let Congress vote to abolish the tax on earned incomes and direct Secretary Mellon to replace that revenue with interest payments made by foreign governments.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay watching a snowfall through a window and dropped off into a hideous nightmare, awakening with my head caught in a night table. Breakfasted with Bide Dudley, who is writing another play, and Amos and Andy, the radio boys, called and we had a long talk.

Came Charles A. Hughes, the Detroit pamphleteer, to show me the photograph of his beautiful young daughter and drove him to Baird Leonard's and then with my wife to see Kathleen and Charles Norris, on their annual visit from California, and a distinguished gathering there.

In the evening to a theatrical opening and saw Patricia Ziegfeld in an evening frock, having become almost a grown up lady. After the play with some others to a night place in Harlem but so depressing we left in ten minutes. So home to bed.

First night theatrical regulars miss the veteran Percy Hammond, who has packed his portable and is voyaging around the world with his wife. While ostensibly on "a leave of absence" there are rumors he has permanently abandoned reviewing and upon his return will devote himself to the leisurely writing of a book or so along with an occasional magazine article.

Hammond, who is 57, has attended most opening nights than any living critic. He has been a familiar figure, portly and ruddy-cheeked, drooping in his down front aisle chair year after year. To many he expressed a half-hidden indifference and his expression rarely changed yet not a word or gesture escaped him. He loved to juggle words and phrases and his euphonious eulogies have sent many admirers thumbing the dictionary. Hammond was born in Cadiz, O., married a school day sweetheart of that village and scored his first conspicuous success as a critic in Chicago. He was reputed the highest salaried reviewer in town.

A horse back rider in Central Park, who was swept from his runaway horse by a mounted patrolman, has shown his appreciation without embarrassing the horse with a outright gift. He has taken out a $50,000 insurance policy on the patrolman's life, making his family beneficiaries.

Al Smith is installed in his pent house at 51 Fifth Ave. His neighbors directly across the street are George W. Olvany and Police Commissioner Whalen and the section has become known as "Little Tammany," to sight seeing bus barkers.

Phoenix, Ariz., is a popular spot for hundreds of New Yorkers this winter. It has especially attracted sinus victims. The sinus, as a conversational topic, is to Phoenix what the appendix used to be on the hotel porches a few years ago.

Washington Mews, that row of shambling barns made over into pleasant studios, is resisting the invasion of a taxi stand. For years it has been the last refuge of romanticism—a cloister, untainted by gasoline smells, for artists, writers and sculptors. Many have become distinguished. He stretches from University Place to Fifth Avenue and is a replica of one of those queer old world turns where one steps out of a mighty jangle into churchyard quiet.

Among other creative souls in Washington Mews is a photographer—I can scarcely wait to pop off this one—with a new "slant." He pieces his subjects in a reclining position on the floor while he snaps them from the top of a step ladder.

O. Henry dreamed of living in the Mews when his ship came in. The property is owned by Sailor Snug Harbor and many say its life is short, a skyscraper project all ready having doomed it.

From a current novel: "He became suddenly conscious of the lunar luminosity of an otherwise sedately subdued room, and was bewilderingly entranced."

One of those writey writers!
